

FRONT and HANDBAG

Here is a smart dicky and a handbag to match, which you can make yourself.

YOU NEED: Three-quarters of a yard of 36-inch wide material... Cut out a paper pattern first, so as not to risk spoiling the stuff.

FABRIC: Stiff tartan taffeta would go well under a silk suit... plaid flannel under a cloth coat... linen-tweed, if you like it... or in a plain coloured hunting-cloth...

HOW TO CUT: Cut front to measurements given in the diagram... tabs depends upon individual measurements.

BAG: Front and back should look exactly the same—both with flaps. Fasten with snap fasteners or initials. To make: cut from doubled material. Stitch the two pieces together, leaving the top open. Press the fold where indicated. Pull corners A and B down to centre fold (dot in first diagram), and fold back half of the square formed.

TO WEAR: either tie the top of the apron at the back of the neck or bring the tags round as shown.

Have you a Camera Eye?

WHEN I watch the modern Talkies, and see how the tiniest detail is caught by the camera and magnified on the screen, I sometimes wonder how an ordinary person's day would appear if it were recorded.

I was hurrying to the station when I caught sight of my fish man. He was holding one end of a little enameled can, like the one I used to fetch milk in when we lived in a country village long ago.

The other end was in his pony's mouth. The pony was having a long drink with obvious enjoyment, neither knowing nor caring how funny he looked with the blue can sticking out of his mouth.

"He loves his cup of tea," called the fish man cheerily as I passed. "Wise pony," I answered, and I thought, "Nec fish man." I wished that everyone in the hot weather were as careful of the comfort of dogs and horses as he. The train had just started off when I saw a school-boy make a wild dash down the corridor. Before I had time to wonder if he had forgotten something and was going to take the risk of jumping out, he had fastened a door which had not latched.

Prompt Action

The train was away in a speed got up, and a person walking along might have been thrown against that door and fallen out, had it not been for the sharp-eyed boy and his prompt action.

If a giant camera were turning all day long how many millions of tiny acts like these would go to make up the sum total of human life, and how surprised we should be to see them reproduced.

And if we could only imagine that we stood before a camera which recorded every act and word, we might often be a good deal more discreet.

Could Not Bear The Radio.

An Unhappy Victim Of Nerves.

"My nerves were in such a state that I could not bear the wireless," states Mrs. M. Rea, of 27, Manningham Road, Anfield, Liverpool.

"Every little thing irritated me. I had bad bouts of dizziness and faintness. I became very anæmic; my face was pale, and the least exertion made me breathless. I could not sleep at night, and was in a state of constant dread.

"Nothing I tried gave me any relief, until one day a nurse advised me to try Dr. Williams' pink pills. I did so, and soon began to eat and sleep better. My nerves became steady, the colour returned to my cheeks, and before long I was able to do my housework again. Now I feel better than I have done for years."

Dr. Williams' pink pills have proved a priceless boon to thousands of run-down nervy women, because they actually create new, rich blood, which gives new life and energy to the whole system. So if you suffer as Mrs. Rea did, let nothing prevent you from giving these pills a trial. For other troubles arising from an impoverished state of the blood, digestive disorders, insomnia, debility, rheumatism and its kindred ailments, loss of appetite, weight and strength there is no more effective treatment than Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Obtainable from chemists everywhere. Equally good for men.

KIPPERS FOR BREAKFAST

KIPPERS are cheap again. Here are two more ways of serving them for breakfast.

Kipper Scramble

Here is another way of serving kippers that is very popular at breakfast time. Allow one kipper per person, or two if they are small ones.

The night before they are required, place the kippers in your frying pan, cover with water, and bring to the boil very slowly. Simmer for five minutes. When they are cold, remove the flesh from the bone and break up with a fork.

In the morning, take half as many eggs as you took kippers, and add two tablespoonsful of milk to each egg. Beat the eggs and milk together, and add the flaked kipper. Season with pepper, but no salt. Melt a little butter in a saucepan, pour in the mixture, and stir, until it thickens. Serve on rounds of buttered toast.

Fillets of Bloater

Bloaters, like kippers, are another delicious variety of the herring. For some reason, they are not eaten so freely as kippers, but cook them like this and you will see how popular they will be.

Break off the heads, split the fish open down the back and remove the flesh in long fillets. Dip each piece in oiled butter, then in cheese, and lay them in a greased fireproof dish. Bake for ten minutes in a brisk oven or, if you prefer, grill them for two or three minutes. Serve on oblong slices of buttered toast, and if for a special occasion, put a sprinkling of chopped gherkin on top.

VOGUE FOR EMBROIDERY

EMBROIDERY of all kinds plays an important part in autumn fashions. It was used in a number of interesting ways in the collection of models which Mme. Machinka showed to invited guests in London recently.

The more original the design, the better the effect. One afternoon dress in the collection, in finely ribbed black silk with the fashionable dull surface, shows a draped bodice. This opens over a bright red front on which a cairn terrier is embroidered in gold thread, and the idea is repeated again on the deep-red cuffs.

This frock has a complementary coat, made from black woollen material with a knotty surface. It fastens close up round the throat, is belted at the waist and is trimmed with the new Persian lamb cloth, so like the fur that it is almost impossible to tell the difference.

Dressmakers remain faithful to black.

One of the most attractive dinner or cinema frocks chosen by Mme. Machinka is made in fine satin-spotted black taffeta.

A blouse cottee, fastened with a wide bow at the waist, is worn over a dainty sleeveless blouse of killed peach-tinted chiffon edged with chiffon flowers, each centred with a diamond.

THE designer of this autumn outfit used grey soutache braid to trim the dress and matching coat.

Russo-German War Impracticable For 10 Years

REARMAMENT "FOR DEFENCE ONLY" WHY FUEHRER SUPPRESSED LIBERTY

By A. J. CUMMINGS

MR. LLOYD GEORGE has returned from his visit to Germany and Hitler in magnificent health and spirits. For two hours he talked to me in absorbing detail of his impressions and conclusions.

He thoroughly enjoyed his visit and he thoroughly enjoyed his talks with Hitler, for whom he evidently entertains a sincere admiration.

His views on Hitler's intentions in Europe, on German policy and on some other characteristics of the Germany of to-day are certainly not those of many other Liberal visitors to Germany.

They do not, let me frankly admit, accord with all my own direct impressions derived from personal visits.

A Menace? That Depends—

But Mr. Lloyd George expressed himself with the courage and plainness of speech one always expects from him. He is full of his subject and just as full of confidence as the rest of us in our own interpretation of facts as we see them.

He received me in his library at Chart with great good humour. "I read with interest," he began with a laughing grimace, "your savage attack on the German menace published just before I reached home."

"I rather gather," I replied, "that you do not regard Germany as a menace to the peace of Europe?"

"That depends on the way Germany is treated. If she is attacked and her territories invaded as they were by Poincaré in 1923 then she will no longer crouch peaceably under the lash. You may call this new attitude of self-defence and self-respect a menace to peace."

"Has not Hitler set up a military dictatorship?"

"A Dictatorship, yes, but no more militarist than any other ruler who relies on his Army to defend his frontiers," replied Mr. Lloyd George. "Blum, the Socialist Premier, has millions of fully trained and equipped soldiers behind him."

Two Kinds of Dictators

"I am going to give you my candid opinion. I am neither a Fascist nor a Communist. I went out to Germany as a Liberal. I looked at Germany through Liberal eyes. I have come back as a Liberal. But Liberals who refuse to face facts are the curse of Liberalism."

"If we want peace amongst the nations we must accept as a regrettable but indubitable fact that most of the countries of Europe are ruled by dictators. Two have recently joined the ranks of Dictatorships."

"Liberalism does not mean that you should choose for another country the form of Constitution by which it should be governed."

"There are two kinds of dictators. One is the ruler who determines how his own country can best be governed. The other is the one who presumes to dictate to another country how it should be ruled. The latter is not Liberalism—it is just impertinence."

"What do you regard as the facts about the menace of German militarism?"

GERMAN ARMY

NOT READY YET

"My answer is that Germany has no desire to attack any country in Europe and that Hitler is arming for defence and not for attack."

"My conviction is that for at least ten years war between Russia and Germany is impracticable. Even if Germany desired war, which she certainly does not unless other better-equipped nations butt in and attack her,

"the German Army is not ready, and could not be ready in that time. It is not in a position to attack anybody. Though a formidable army for defence, it has neither the weapons nor the trained officers nor the trained men for any such enterprise."

"The conscripts are very young; they are coming in at about 500,000 a year."

"Until that army has built up its reserves and an adequate complement of highly-trained officers, it cannot be compared with the German army of 1914, which Foch described as the greatest army the world has ever seen."

"The German army is formidable for defence because of the splendid spirit of the men, because of its first-class equipment of machine guns, the greatest of defensive weapons, and because of its powerful fortifications East and West; but it is not an army that could march across its frontiers with any hope of success."

LLOYD GEORGE

"I am still a Gladstonian"

HITLER WOULD BE

TOO OLD

"Hitler himself admitted to someone that I met that his army could be ready as an attacking force for 15 or 20 years. 'Have you thought how old I shall be then?' he said. 'At that age men do not seek wars.'"

"Doesn't he want to fight Russia?" I asked.

"No," said Mr. Lloyd George. "He has a fanatical hatred of Bolshevism. For 17 years he has made speeches against Russia and Bolshevism. He devoted the propaganda of years to organise an anti-Communist front in Germany. But he recoils at the suggestion that he means to march to Moscow, or that he covets the Ukraine."

"No," went on Mr. Lloyd George, "though Hitler naturally wants Memel and Danzig, which are as German as Hull is English, and much more so than Cardiff is Welsh, he has no desire to absorb millions of Slavs, whom he despises and would regard as an offence to the doctrine of racial purity."

FEAR OF ATTACK BY RUSSIA

"Is he afraid of an invasion of Germany by Soviet Russia?"

"I think there is a genuine apprehension of an armed attack from Communist Russia. In 1920 the Red Armies, badly equipped as they were, got as far as Warsaw."

"On the other hand, a very able German soldier told me that the hopelessly defective transport organisation on the western borders of Russia makes a Russian invasion of Germany on any scale of magnitude a strategic impossibility for at least ten years."

"But Hitler is very anxious for France to renounce her pact with Russia?"

"Yes, that is so. I pointed out to him that he could hardly expect a Socialist French Premier to renounce a pact with Russia which had been signed by a predecessor from the Right."

"What do you think of Germany under the dictatorship?"

"Hitler has done great things for his country. He is unquestionably a great leader. There is not the slightest doubt that the workers and particularly the younger generation are absolutely devoted to him."

"He has effected a remarkable improvement in the working conditions of both men and women. Of that there can be no manner of doubt. And they appreciate it."

"They look upon him as a monarch. Though they criticise things said and done by Goering and Goebbels or other subordinates they will never say a word against Hitler. He is a dynamic personality."

"It is a grave misfortune that great leaders are not being thrown up by the European democracies; since the war they have arisen only in the authoritarian States."

DEMOCRATIC LEADERS

ARE FUMBLING

"That is the most serious feature of modern Europe. The dictators are acting whilst the democratic leaders are fumbling. That is the real menace."

"An American," I interjected, "pointed out the other day that a large part of Europe is now being governed not by men of brains but by dynamic morons."

"Whatever Hitler may be he is certainly no mechanical moron. It is foolish to suggest it," said Mr. Lloyd George, laughing, "nor is Mussolini."

"It was the weakness of democracies—the failure, if you like, of a Popular Front to unite the progressive sections—which forced Italy into Dictatorship. The failure of the German democratic parties to make effective use of their opportunities which had reduced Germany to the lowest ebb, and thus made inevitable either the Hitler or some other revolution."

UNITY BEFORE LIBERTY

"What do you think of Hitler's methods of establishing his regime?" "He built up his movement by 14 years of propaganda under a regime of freedom—free speech and a free press. But it is maintained by the methods of revolution."

"Germany had to decide in a great national emergency between unity and liberty. She chose unity and she still regards it as the only possible choice."

"I am convinced that in the face of the hostile nations with which they are surrounded the vast majority of Germans of all classes dread a return to the old faction fights that followed their defeat."

"And German unity involved German concentration camps?"

"I need hardly say that I am no advocate of the immuring of political opponents in concentration camps. But once you establish an authoritarian State it is the only alternative to the wholesale massacres which disgraced the first years of the Russian Revolution."

"Did you see any of the concentration camps while you were in Germany?"

"No, I did not visit the Berlin area, but I accept the description of their condition. It is well that the few Liberal countries still left in the world should realise what are the alternatives to free democratic institutions."

"The suppression of liberty in Germany as in all countries under a dictatorship," Mr. Lloyd George went on, "is a terrible thing to an old Liberal like myself. But you must remember that the German democracy, like Italian democracy, was very young. It was not deep-rooted in our country. Political and personal liberty does not yet mean to Germany what it means to us."

"Moreover, we do not need and certainly would not tolerate this form of Government. Our weakness is not in democracy, but in the executive. In the leadership. I am convinced that a strong executive could accomplish in our country all that Hitler has accomplished in Germany and much more for we have greater financial resources, and Parliament will respond to a strong executive."

HITLER ADMIRES

THE BRITISH

"Hitler has a profound admiration for the British people, which is shared by Germans of all classes. Their desire for friendship with us is indisputably real. Over and over again Germans said to me: 'We have only had one quarrel with England; we must never have another.' Hitler wants our friendship."

"What, Mr. Lloyd George, is Hitler's quietest wish?"

"He doesn't ask and has never asked for a quid pro quo, except equality of status for his great country."

MR. EDEN'S

QUESTIONNAIRE

"How is it, if he wants our friendship, asks for no quid pro quo, and has no military designs anywhere in Europe, that for six months he has left unanswered the very reasonable British questionnaire on his intentions?"

"It ought never to have been sent. We submitted no questionnaire to France or to Italy. Why to Germany? They are much more fully armed than Germany."

"That was all questions that ought to have been asked at the conference itself. They justified the suspicion that we do not even now treat Germany as an equal. We administered interrogations as if we were litigants in some petty nisi prius suit. It was pettifoggery and not high diplomacy."

"If Hitler has no ambitions for military conquest how is he going to carry out his expansionist programme for making a prosperous Germany?"

"His expansion is an expansion of Germany's internal resources. Outside it will be a commercial expansion. Both processes are going on now."

"Germany is already developing her external trade. She has an improving trade, for instance, with Yugoslavia, with Bulgaria and Hungary. She is trading more and more with Russia. She is going to put up a great fight for trade and in the future her trade drive will be eastward rather than westward."

"You would agree that at present Germany is a poor country?"

"Yes, a very poor country. Her people were literally starving at the end of the war. Afterwards inflation, wild and uncontrolled, left her insolvent. There are many indications of that, one of which—not the least significant—is the absence of display of luxury goods in the shops even in great cities like Munich. But there is no hunger anywhere now."

SNOBBERY

"Hitler, in fact, discourages all forms of luxury. He himself lives

ADOLF HITLER

"He is unquestionably a great leader."

with the utmost simplicity. He is very abstemious. Apparently his only recreation is gardening. The room in which I had a meal with him is austere furnished."

"There are few rich people in Germany to-day. The great industrialists who made vast profits before the Revolution are no longer allowed to retain these profits. They are compelled to expend a large proportion on welfare improvements inside the factories."

"As to what remains, they are so heavily taxed by the State that it is rare to find any industrialist able to command for his own use a very large income. I do not think the rich Germans altogether share in the general worship of Hitler. They regard him as a passing necessity."

"One extraordinary feature of the Nazi regime is that it has tended to break down class distinctions. There is very little class feeling in Germany. Hitler has a down on social snobbery. He says: 'You are all Germans—you are not swells and common people.'"

"This view is now almost a religion. On one occasion my companions told me that they sat in a large restaurant with two or three members of the old aristocracy and it was most interesting to see that their chauffeurs sat with them as a matter of course at the same table."

"I believe large numbers of workmen are more satisfied with their present relations with their employers than with their relations under the old regime."

"I talked to many of these young workmen, both middle-aged and young, and they admitted frankly that their Works Councils with a right of appeal to the district arbitrator or Judge were a great advantage and produced quicker and more definite results than the old method of strikes."

"More than one of them said to me that it was a good thing to have got rid of what they described as the political trade unions."

"They preferred to keep questions affecting conditions of their working life out of politics. John Burns, Henry Broadhurst, Thomas Burt and most of the old trade union leaders were strongly of that opinion when it was decided to incorporate the unions in a political party."

"On the other hand, a leading manufacturer in Germany said to me: 'I realise that we have never till now understood the point of view of the workman.'"

"How far is the improvement in Germany due to rearmament?"

"The figures of absorption of the German unemployed into the rearmament industry are greatly exaggerated. I inquired into that matter, and I am convinced that not more than 25 or 30 per cent. have been so absorbed."

BIG PLANS FOR PUBLIC WORKS

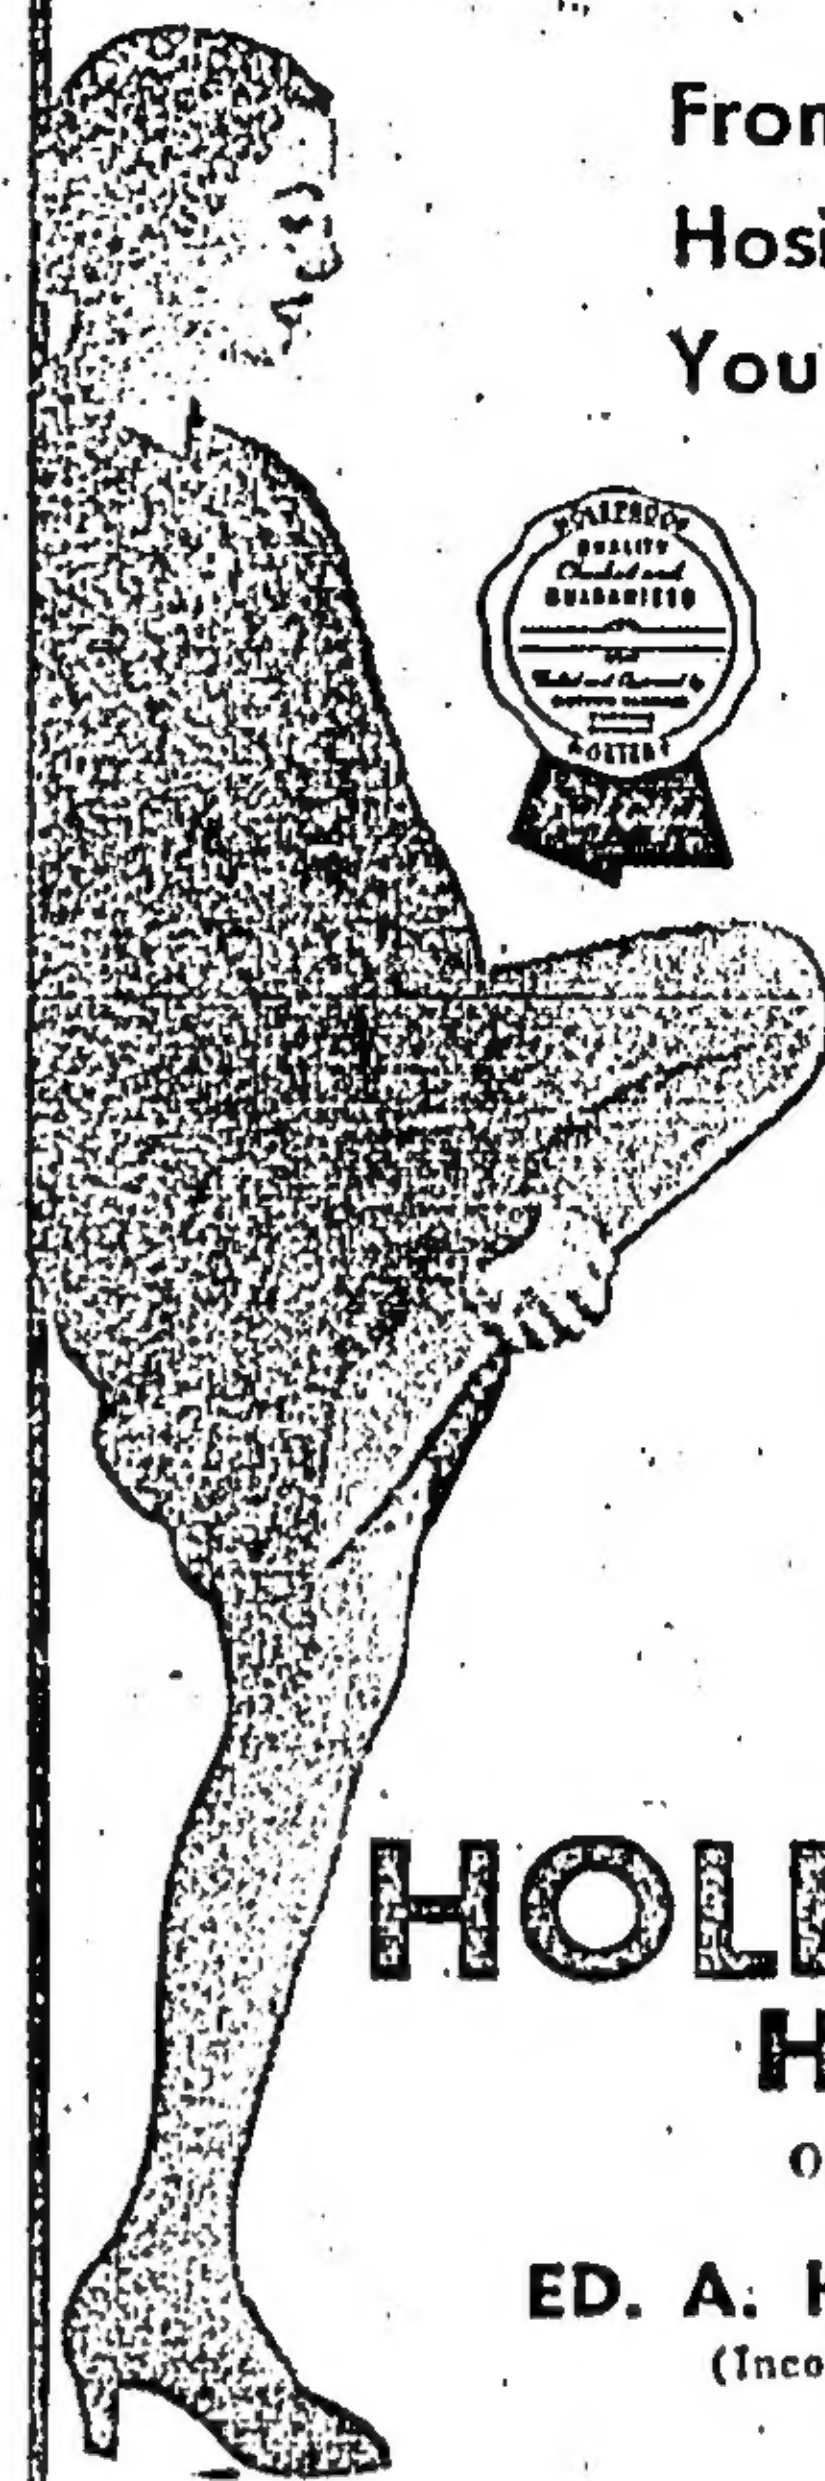

"What is going to happen when Hitler has completed, if he ever does complete, his rearmament programme?"

"I understand that is all cut and dried. Hitler told me that his rearmament programme will be soon completed."

"He is ready now for the immediate transfer of the main activities of German labour to gigantic reconstruction schemes. All is ready now for the word 'Go.'"

"Germany is doing a wonderful work in the building of great arterial roads and in the reclamation of millions of acres of land. And when rearmament is at an end German industry will begin at once (Continued on Page 11.)"

IN BANKRUPTCY

ORDER AGAINST MR.

A. H. ROBERTS

A petition for a receiving order against Mr. A. H. Roberts, trading as the Victoria Printing Press, was brought by forty-five of his employees at the Bankruptcy Court on Saturday.

Appearing for the petitioners, Mr.

M. C. McCallum, told the Chief Justice, Sir Athol MacGregor, that his clients had had great difficulty in getting their wages since April.

Ultimately they filed a petition and an interim order was made.

"It was impossible," continued Mr.

McCallum, "to serve the petition on the debtor because he had absconded

from the Colony, and on September

21, an order for substituted service was made."

Chung Hon-wing, a clerk of Messrs. McCallum and Co., said that in pursuance of the order for substituted service made on September

21, he served a copy of the petition

at 98 Robinson Road and posted an order outside the Supreme Court building.

Mr. J. B. Prentiss, Official Receiver,

said the assets, if the receiving order

were granted, were sufficient to pay the usual percentage of the debts.

He had no objection to the order.

His Lordship made the order.

The winding-up petition

of the Wah Keung Engineering Co.,

brought by Lau Man-yiu, an employee and creditor of the firm, was dismissed by His Lordship, with costs.

Mr. F. H. Loseby appeared for the petitioner, Mr. M. A. da Silva watched the proceedings on behalf of one of the partners in Canton.

Mr. Leung Hoi-chau, and Mr. Peter

H. Sin represented the largest creditor, Mr. Sin Wai-man. Both of them opposed the petition.

OTTO'S RETURN

PLEBISCITE TO DECIDE

AUSTRIA'S FUTURE

Vienna, Oct. 16.

Police raided the Heimwehr headquarters to-day fearing that a demonstration would be staged tomorrow in support of Chancellor Kurt

Schuschnigg's new Fatherland Front celebrates its birth.

It is claimed that a large store of arms was found—United Press.

Return Favoured.

Vienna, Oct. 17.

Much surprise has been caused by the speech of Dr. Kurt Schuschnigg, the Austrian Chancellor, to 12,000 of the Fatherland Front officials to-day,

when he declared that the legitimist movement was legal, and foreshadowed a plebiscite on the question of the future form of a new Government.

The Chancellor said that Austria was forever united historically with the Hapsburg family, who had done so much for the country. A section of the people favoured restoration because they expected improved conditions from such a step.

Dr. Schuschnigg denied the reports that he had promised Germany that he would not permit the restoration of the Hapsburgs, and concluded by saying that neither the Government

nor the Supreme Council of the Fatherland Front was competent to deal with the question "which can only be settled by a plebiscite."

The announcement is more surprising in view of the Austro-German agreement of July, coupled with Germany's well-known dislike of the Hapsburgs.

The speech is therefore regarded as an expression of Austria's disappointment in the agreement, which failed to fulfil Austria's hopes, both politically and economically.—Reuter.

PARTING GIFT TO THEIR FOUNDER-CONDUCTORThe second Elgar concert was given by the Hongkong Singers at the China Fleet Club Theatre on Saturday night, under the conductor-ship of Mr. J. Anderson Miller, and their success was equal to that of their first performance on Thursdaylast.
The excellent work of the Singers was appreciated by a large audience, which included His Excellency the Governor, Sir Andrew Caldecott, Lady Caldecott and party.Following the performance, on the invitation of the Chairman (Professor L. T. Ride) His Excellency, who is the President of the Hongkong Singers, presented Mr. and Mrs. J.
Anderson Miller with a parting giftfrom the Singers. The gift was in the form of a silver tray, beautifully engraved with a dragon design.
After the presentation, His Ex-cellency in a speech expressed regret at the impending departure of Mr.
and Mrs. Anderson Miller, and also paid a high tribute to the excellent work they had done for music duringtheir stay here.
Replying, Mr. Anderson Miller expressed his gratefulness for all the support he had received from the Singers, and referred to their cosmopolitan membership which em-braced many different nationalities, making it a "League of Nations"
united through their love of music. He then paid special tributes to Mr. Anderson Miller, themembers of the committee, and other executive officers, and remarked that he was leaving two firmly established local musical institutions, the Hongkong Singers and theChinese Choral Society, which he had founded, in the capable hands of his friend and colleague Mr.
Lindsay A. Lafford.The ceremony concluded with three hearty cheers given by the

FOR HONGKONG
OFFICIAL SCHEME.His Excellency the Governor has been informed from many quarters of a general desire that Hong Kong should possess a worthy Memorial to His late Majesty, King George V.In the United Kingdom the National Memorial,
with royal approval, will take the form of Playing Fields throughout the country with suitable commemorative entrance gates. Members of the fighting Services, in this Colony are subscribing to this Home memorial, and any civilians who desire to contribute are reminded that remittances should be addressed to "The King George National Memorial Fund, The Mansion House, London, E.C.4."At the present time of economic depression it is unlikely that sufficient money could be raised in this Colony for the purchase of large areas for playing fields.
The Executive Council has therefore had under most careful consideration the preparation of a plan which, while identical in its main purpose and conception with the Home Scheme, will carry with it an assurance of immediate practical success and of popular acceptance.
The scheme which has emerged is that Government should preserve for public parks with children's playgrounds two open spaces, one in Victoria and the other in Kowloon. Both the proposed areas adjoin congested districts, and any possible doubts as to their potential recreative and hygienic value will be speedily dispelled
by an evening visit to the existing Southern Playing Ground at Wai Tsai.The area selected for Victoria is the beautiful garden of the present Government Civil Hospital, which will no longer be required when the Queen Mary Hospital opens next year. The Maternity Block and Medical Officer's quarters can be demolished and there will then be room for three playgrounds and (if funds permit)
for a paddling pool, without encroachment on the fine lawn that already exists. The many lovely trees, which luckily escaped mutilation by the recent typhoon, would of course be preserved in any future layout.In Kowloon there is a sufficiently large unalienated space at the Northern end of Canton Road just before it joins Jordan Road. It contains at present some rocky hummocks but, given funds, these can be easily levelled off or converted into terrace gardens. More would have to be done here than at the Civil Hospital, but there is no reason why an equally useful and pleasant result should not emerge. If, however, this area can be exchanged for one even more suitable the Government will consider such an exchange.The Government's contribution to the scheme will be the preservation of these areas as open spaces, their preparation and equipment depending upon public subscription. The erection of commemorative arches or gates, as under the Home Scheme, would doubtless meet with general approval but (although tentative sketch-plans are being got out) the local Scheme is not yet tied to any set design. All subscriptions will be handed over to the Urban Council, and with them will lie the responsibility of getting the fullest value for money in the lay-out, equipment and beautification of both areas. It is considered that future maintenance would be a fair charge on urban revenues and voluntary subscriptions will therefore be utilised entirely on initial development.The Governor earnestly invites subscriptions to this Scheme, which should be paid into the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank, the Chinese Chamber of Commerce or the Tung Wah Hospital. His Excellency is most grateful to these institutions for this service of collection.
Cheques should be made payable to "King George V Memorial Fund" and crossed. In launching this appeal the Governor hopes that the Scheme will commend itself as strongly to the general public as it does to his colleagues on the Executive Council and Finance Committee and to himself, and that it will meet with a truly generous response. The receipt of donations will be acknowledged in the newspapers, by kind permission of the Editors.Mountain Lodge, September 30th, 1936.NOTICE

space reservations not later than noon on Thursdays.

CHINA AND JAPAN

NORTHERN GENERALS MEET CHIANG

Shanghai, Oct. 17. Conferences, likely to affect virtually the future of North China, are proceeding in Hangchow between Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and various Northern leaders representing the five provinces involved in Japan's so-called autonomy scheme.

Following closely on the heels of General Han Fu-chu, Generals Yang Hu-cheng, Pacification Officer of Shensi, and Hsu Yung-chang, former governor of Shansi, who is representing Yen Hsi-shan, Pacification Commissioner of Shansi arrived in Hangchow yesterday.

Keh Ting-yuan, Secretary-General of the Hsiao-chang Political Council, is also at present in Hangchow. The Northern leaders were warmly welcomed by General Wang Shao-hung, Governor of Chekiang, and they conferred with the Generalissimo in the evening.

Full support for the Central Government in its present efforts to preserve the sovereignty and territorial integrity of China was pledged. General Han Fu-chu, interviewed by the Chinese press, said that "China cannot afford internal divisions in the present crisis."

The Governor of Shantung said that the "foreign problems facing" the Government must be settled nationally. —Reuter.

Result Satisfactory

Shanghai, Oct. 18. The most satisfactory results have been reached at the preliminary discussion between Marshal Chiang Kai-shek and Generals Han Fu-chu and Hsu Yung-chang regarding important national defence measures in North China.

General Han had declared in the course of an interview yesterday that Shantung was part of the territory under the Central Government's control and he would not allow it to be separated from the Central Government. This means that General Han has pledged his most sincere support towards the National Government and would defend his province at all cost in case of a foreign invasion. —Wah Kiu Yat Po.

Hope for Settlement

Shanghai, Oct. 17. Sino-Japanese relations are likely to be satisfactorily and amicably settled in spite of the apparent tension as reported by vernacular dispatches. It was learned to-day.

What are the Japanese terms of adjusting Sino-Japanese issues are not known, although numerous reports stated that Mr. Shigeru Kawagoe, the Japanese Ambassador, proposes complete autonomy for the five northern provinces, reduction of tariff rates in favour of Japanese goods, the right to station Japanese troops in the Yangtze Valley and the elimination of anti-Japanese sentiment in text books.

Chinese diplomatic circles in Nanking deny any intention to provoke a war with Japan, but it is generally conceded that Chinese precautionary measures indicate that any settlement should be based on a fair and friendly basis. —Union News.

Military Manoeuvre

Tientsin, Oct. 18. It is understood that the Japanese military manoeuvre which was held from October 28 to November 6, instructions have been issued to all Japanese troops in North China.

The following events are included: From October 28 to 29, there will be a manoeuvre of all combined companies in the suburbs of Peking and Tientsin. These Japanese infantry forces will drill with artillery, armoured cars and tanks.

A mock battle will take place from October 30 to November 1 west of Peking. On November 2 all Japanese troops in North China will concentrate at Tungechow, where they will hold a general manoeuvre under General Teshiro's personal direction. The sphere of military activities will be extended from Tungechow to the northern section of the Peking-Mukden Railway. The Japanese military manoeuvres will be continued until November 4 by holding a general inspection of troops at the foot of the Pat Pao Shan Hill, near Peking, where the Japanese troops will camp. —Wah Kiu Yat Po.

Incident Settled

Tsingtao, Oct. 17. An agreement has been reached between the Japanese Consular authorities and the Chinese Maritime Customs here for settlement of the Kooki Maru incident of June 19, according to an announcement from the Japanese Consulate-General here this afternoon. The Kooki Maru

BURGLAR CHASED

INSUFFICIENT EVIDENCE TO OBTAIN CONVICTION

Cheung Mun Yuen, 30, gardener, of 238 Prince Edward Road, was discharged by Mr. E. Himsforth at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court on Saturday, on a charge of attempted burglary in the home of Mr. T. L. Jackson in the early hours of October 16.

Mr. Jackson stated that when he moved into his new home a few days ago, he had been warned by a friendly neighbour to beware of burglars who were operating in the vicinity nearly every night. Mr. Jackson headed the warning and hearing noises late on the night of October 16, decided to stay awake and see what would happen. About 3 a.m. he heard scuffling noises and saw a man, clad in a short blue coat and white trousers, climbing from the roof of an adjoining house on to his verandah. The man proceeded on his hands and knees along the verandah to Mr. Jackson's baby's room, where he stopped for a minute as a large tailor's mirror and a sofa, intentionally placed inside the door by Mr. Jackson to hinder a burglar, seemed to create an obstacle to climb over without making a noise. The man then returned to the door leading to Mr. Jackson's bedroom, and hesitated there, deciding to come back to Mr. Jackson's bedroom before entering the house. While he was trying to decide whether or not to go into the bedroom he stood with his face to the bright street light for several minutes, giving witness a chance to get a good impression of his features. Mr. Jackson stated that he did not move until the burglar was inside his room and had started rummaging around in his bureau drawers. Mr. Jackson crawled so that he was between the robber and the child's room, so that the man would not run in there and frighten his occupant. The intruder, however, heard a noise and darted for the verandah, witness after him. They ran across the garden and went over the rough-cast wall, where Mr. Jackson received some scratches on his wrists and knees similar to those on defendant's wrist and knees. The man managed to get away.

Mr. Jackson suspected one of a group of four gardeners who had a garden next to his house, and on Friday he identified one of the men as the burglar by his peculiar features and the singular way in which his hair stood up. The other men were all close shaven and did not resemble the robber in the least.

His Worship said he did not wish to convict merely on the powers of recognition of a man's profile and hair, seen at night, and discharged the man, expressing the opinion that even though there was a great deal of evidence tending to pin the offence on defendant, the evidence was not conclusive enough for a conviction.

was fired on by a Customs patrol boat.

Negotiations ended on Thursday, it was announced, after the Customs Commissioner Mr. A. S. Campbell, had called on the Consul-General, Mr. Haruhiko Nishi, and sought final settlement of the affair, presenting a number of terms of solution.

The terms were accepted on Friday on condition that the Customs authorities pledge themselves to carry out the provisions with full sincerity, it was further revealed.

According to the official announcement, the settlement terms included: First, that the Customs authorities tender a formal apology to the Japanese for the careless treatment of the Japanese flag.

Second, that the Customs authorities pledge themselves not to use certain bullets in the future.

Third, that the Hai Sul, the patrol boat responsible for the firing, and its crew, be transferred from Tsingtao, and that a new patrol boat manned by an entirely new crew replace the Hai Sul.

Fourth, that a solatium of $500 (Chinese) be paid for the crew of the Mooki Maru, and.

Fifth, that the Customs authorities hereafter make it a rule not to remove the national flag of a seized ship before its confiscation is decided upon, and also that in the future they will not abuse regulations for controlling smuggling. —Union News.

Sulyuan Fighting

Shanghai, Oct. 17. The Central News Agency reports from Peking that several skirmishes between mounted patrols of irregulars under the bandit leader Wang Ying, and the Sulyuan troops, have occurred on the East Sulyuan border. —United Press.

had himself discovered only the year before.

In this case, Professor Hobbs stated, the source of the mirage was 275 miles away. Sir James Clark Ross was another famous explorer whom he instanced as having once been the victim of a mirage of this type.

PERSONAL EXPERIENCE

Both Professor Hobbs and other speakers at the meeting were able to attest from personal experience to the reality of the effect under discussion.

Professor Frank Debenham, director of the Polar Research Institute at Cambridge, also stated that examples of the "desert" type of mirage were not unknown in Polar regions. A seal in that case might take on the appearance of a ship and cloud shapes might also be deceptive.

Although Professor Hobbs is now aged 72, he told me that he is regarded in Michigan as the "youngest" member of his faculty. It was in 1923, at the age of 64, that he led the last of his three Greenland expeditions.

Not content with contributing to the British Association's meeting here, he is next proposing to attend the forthcoming International Congress of Geodesy and Geophysics at Edinburgh. He is also vice-president of the international committee on glaciers. By the study of glaciers over long periods, the committee is seeking to obtain new information about climatic changes.

THE BELL CUP

BAD WEATHER POSTPONES THE COMPETITION

For several weeks gusty conditions have made flying unpleasant at Kai Tak Airport, and yesterday the trials of the forced landing competition which was to be held among members of the Air Arm of the Hongkong Volunteers was postponed after a consultation between Mr. A.J.R. Moss, Superintendent of the airport, and members of the Far East Flying Training School, whose planes are being used.

The competition is for the Bell Cup, a cup presented by Mr. W. H. Bell and competed for by members of the Air Arm of the Volunteers. The forced landing contest counts for a third of the whole competition, the remaining marks being obtained from examinations in ground subjects.

The afternoon's exhibition was to include displays of crazy flying by Lt. Smith flying trainer of the School, and air acrobatics. Later, invited guests were to have joined in a reception held in honour of Mr. Bell, who is leaving the Colony this month and whose cup is being competed for this year for the first time.

Presenting AN ENTIRELY NEW KIND OF LIPSTICK

To the world's most permanent transparent lipstick two magical new ingredients have been added . . . to keep your lips luscious, soft, smooth and youthful!

The Cause of Unattractive Lips

Quite often, ordinary lipstick dries and cracks, leaving the lips unattractive and frequently causing the lips to become sore and inflamed. This constant itching removes the lips' natural oils and the protective film of the lips, leaving the lips becoming even drier, more cracked, rougher, and looking . . . unattractive!

Now The New TATTOO

Corrects All This

One of the magical new ingredients in the New TATTOO keeps lips fresh and moist, makes them soft and supple, and there is no need to lick the lips. Your lips are a precious, precious part of your face and actually become softer and smoother than they have ever been before. The New TATTOO is not just a lipstick, it is a lip treatment. With the New TATTOO, you can get the best of both worlds. It is a lipstick and a lip treatment. It keeps your lips soft and moist, and it makes them look beautiful. It is the only lipstick that can do this. It is the only lipstick that can keep your lips looking so good for so long. It is the only lipstick that can make your lips look like they are naturally beautiful. It is the only lipstick that can make your lips look like they are naturally soft and smooth. GERMANY'S LOST COLONIES

Fears that the delicate question
of the return of the former German Colonies might be thrust into
the forefront at a time when there are more vital matters demanding
attention appear to be set at rest
by the reported triumph of German conservative opinion anxious
not to embitter relations with Britain at this stage. On the matter raised, Germany's feelings
are quite understandable; her
case differs from that of the Italians, who, following the conquest of Ethiopia, deigned to add
that their colonial aspirations
were satisfied. The lands which Germany wants were once her
own. In considering this matter,
it will probably be conceded that
if any of the Allies, as a result of the Great War, were bereft of a substantial part of their overseas
possessions, the demand for restitution would be insistent, if, in
the interval, that country had made itself one of the most formidably armed nations in the world, as Germany is to-day.
The economic factor is not the only point in the German claim.
Germany argues that the question
is a matter of prestige, power and
self-respect, and it seems clear
that she will not be a satisfied
member of the society of nations
until her colonial aspirations have been satisfied. Dr. Karl von Abshagen, a noted German journalist, recently stated in a speech
in England that the idea that Germany would go to war to regain her Colonies was preposter-
ous. Saying that Germany would never admit that when she was compelled to hand over her Colonies on the signing of the Peace Treaty, she gave any right
of possession in favour of the Allies, this commentator expressed the hope that "common-sense
and goodwill" would prevail in dealing with this question. One aspect of the matter which has
been put forward is that the return of the Colonies at this juncture, so far from buying peace
and contentment, might merely
whet Germany's appetite for more concessions. There is, also, a psychological factor to be taken into account, this being the Nazi
contempt for weakness, concerning which a London commentator
has hazarded the view that hasty
compliance with the German demand might possibly be mis-
construed. Be that as it may,
there is clearly no urgency in the
matter, which can well be left
over for calm consideration at a time when world conditions are more composed than they are today.

The Face of DARING

Is there some common denominator in the faces of
these women who perform
epic flights regardless of personal danger?

JEAN BATTEN, Amy Molli-
son, Beryl Markham, Amelia
Earhart—four women whose flights have matched the bravest
deeds of men.

Look at their faces.

All four have high foreheads, widely spaced eyes, prominent mouths and strong chins.

All four are greatly alike in the patterns formed by their lines, especially in the lower half of the face.

Look first at the tip of each nose,
and notice how it tends to overhang the upper lip. Then follow back the wings
of the nose, observing in all their expressed breadth, and from here follow
the curve which runs round the mouth.
This curve contributes to the determined
expression of the chin.

It is fixed by the formation of the
jaw and the action of the facial muscles.

The central cause of the similarity of
expression in all four faces is the prominence of the jaws along the line of the teeth. On this is developed a well-set and clear-cut mouth, in which the length of the lips emphasises their straightness. Vigour of expression is accentuated by the relatively hollow appearance of the flesh round the mouth;
the sharp decisive boundary between upper lip and cheek; the depressions between lower lip and chin, and between upper lip and the tip of the nose.

All this construction reflects the
characteristics of courage and endurance,
just as in the pattern of the forehead
and eyes there is evidence of clear
judgment and presence of mind.

But though all are so eminently
endowed with these general characteristics, each is a very distinct personality, differing in many ways from each of the others.

SELF-CONFIDENCE and ease in overcoming difficulties are the outstanding traits. She is extremely simple and unassuming in her manners and outlook, pleasant and warm by nature, anxious to please and to be of assistance to others. She shows intense interest in all she does, responds spontaneously to interest shown by others, has the ability to grasp the significance of small incidents readily, and is thus not easily surprised or caught off her guard.

On the other hand, she possesses great feminine charm, is sensitive, reticent and reserved—although by no means shy. Her manner of approach is open and sincere, but she expects sincerity from others,
and is not easily appeased if advantage is taken of her good nature.

SELF-SUFFICIENT and independent, this face shows a controlled, but nevertheless warm, nature. She does things for their own sake, and for the sake of adventure: she is daring, though not reckless, for she acts only according to plan and after close consideration of detail.

She is an excellent judge of men and situations. She is open and sincere—but discreet. Does not give way to impulsiveness or anger, though she is capable of rigid inflexibility—and even hardness if she thinks that others do not estimate her correctly. Quick to resent interference or criticism.

QUETLY efficient, remarkably determined, the face reveals
a character which commands attention at any time. She dislikes ostentation, is reserved in attitude, opinions, and speech. A planner and in many ways a dreamer, far-sighted and courageous, she stands always alone.

She is, however, an exceedingly pleasant companion, reliable to the extreme. She accepts hardships easily, shows the same reticence and decision even in the most dangerous situations. She does not overrate her achievements. She is prepared to make great sacrifice for the future welfare of man. There is more idealism than anything else behind her quiet, determined manner; but she does not like talking about it. The real type of pioneer.

SENSITIVE, warm-hearted—and has a lively sense of humour. In spite of her daring, she is intensely feminine in her attitude. She is cheerful, generous, intensely natural.

Though reserved about herself, she is an enemy of subterfuge, and reacts spontaneously against insincerity or duplicity of any kind. She is not easily influenced to act against her convictions, but on the other hand she is capable of self-sacrifice.

She will not easily forgive a personal slight. Is not calculating,
but possesses expressed organising qualities, is fond of company and

2,000 CRIMINALS FOR FRANCE

When Devil's Island Closes

Paris, Oct. 10. Abolition of the notorious prison settlement in French Guiana by the end of next year is contemplated by the Government, according to M. Marius Moutet, the Minister of Colonies, and M. Marc Rucart, Minister of Justice.

In interviews published to-day in Paris Soir, these Ministers state that the necessary legislation will be introduced in Parliament during the next session. In the meantime no further convicts will be sent out to the colony. The number at present serving sentences there is believed to be between 6,000 and 7,000.

"The penal settlement is an abcess on the body colonial. All other countries have abandoned this absurd system," M. Moutet said.

Previous efforts to abolish the settlement have usually received little sympathy from the Minister of Justice, but M. Rucart is wholeheartedly in favour of it and recalls that he first became convinced of the necessity of doing away with the system when he investigated it as a member of a Salvation Army committee.

"In suppressing the penal colony," he said, "France is only following other nations' example. England replaced it by imprisonment in gaols in the United Kingdom, and nobody complained, except, perhaps, the prisoners." This reference to the prisoners' preferences brings to the front the fact that, despite the colony's grim reputation, prisoners usually depart there joyfully, buoyed up by the prospect of escape, or, at the worst, at free intercourse with their fellow-prisoners.

It is expected that a mixed commission representing the Ministries of Colonies and Justice will be sent to Cayenne this autumn to study the situation carefully with a view to recommending measures to be taken for closing down the settlement.

PROBLEM OF LIBERTY

One of the most difficult problems is that of the "liberty." Under the present system, known as "doubleage," when a transported man has served his term he must also remain for an equivalent period in the colony. This semi-liberty and the miserable conditions under which he lives usually serve only to confirm in the "bagnard" the vicious and brutal habits developed by his prison life.

There are about 2,000 of the liberty men at present. The plan for returning them to France and scattering them through the country on a ticket of leave system is under consideration.

The penal colony was established in 1852, and in the following 15 years 18,000 criminals were transported. For the next 20 years, however, the Island of New Caledonia, in the South Seas, was preferred, and it was not until 1897 that French Guiana was re-established for the reception of confirmed criminals and for prisoners sentenced to more than eight years' hard labour.

In the public mind it is most prominently associated with the imprisonment of Dreyfus at the end of the century.

DREYFUS' PRISON

Devil's Island, where Dreyfus was kept in solitary confinement, then became synonymous for the whole settlement. Actually, however, Devil's Island is only a very small station with accommodation for some 5 prisoners, who for various reasons it is desired to keep apart from the others.

The main settlement is on the mainland at Cayenne, although there is another island settlement in the same group for the reception of the more recalcitrant criminals. The outstanding criminals who are awaiting transportation in the annual December voyage of La Maritima are the three Ustacha terrorists sentenced to life imprisonment for complicity in the assassination of King Alexander of Yugoslavia.

Should be Studied as a Cautionary Tale

—Professor H. L. Hawkins

PROFESSOR H. L. Hawkins, Professor of Geology at Reading University, thinks that the history of extinct empires should be studied as a "cautionary tale."

In an address on Palaeontology and Humanity to the Geology Section, he said:

"It is difficult to find any type of animal behaviour in which man cannot excel. Whether in the strictly mechanical processes, such as locomotion or building, or in the more subtle qualities of affection and aspiration, he stands revealed as an exuberant animal. There are no activities constructive or destructive, and no habits, pleasing or loathsome, in which he cannot outdo the most accomplished animal.

"It would be wearisome to reiterate the various features wherein the history of human affairs corresponds with the course of evolution in other groups. Whether we consider individual lives, dynasties or empires, the same depressing story applies. Some races, once dominant in their particular sphere, have disappeared entirely; others, fallen from high estate, linger in glorious decay.

"But all of these brave civilisations and empires of which we have records seem to have shown a succession of similar histories. They have risen from obscurity through possession of successful attributes, and have reached the peak of their power only to pass it.

"Human nature has the curious trait of gambling against the laws of cause and effect. We always hope that the fate that befell our predecessors will pass us by. Babylon, Egypt, Rome, Spain all traversed the same track; and to-day we follow in their footsteps hoping to reach some different goal.

"If this were all, man's outlook would indeed be dark. But the human mind is more than a fabricator of evanescent institutions. It can transcend utilitarianism (wherein it but exaggerates animal qualities) and can form idealistic conceptions. Learning, philosophy and art are realities to which men will devote their lives, creating rather than copying, with no ulterior or mercenary aim. The arts and virtues bring a new and inalienable feature into the story of evolution. Some, at least, of their achievements outlive kingdoms and empires, seeming immortal.

PROFESSOR HAWKINS, in the course of his address, said: "The lesson was ancient before the first written word appeared. Its humility has been its salvation. Simplicity is a characteristic of Nature, and complexity a reflex of human ignorance.

The mating of most creatures, particularly of marine invertebrates, achieves a degree of procreancy maintained even in Hollywood.

Polar "Lands" That Never Were

—Professor W. H. Hobbs

POLAR mirages, which deceive the most experienced explorers, were discussed by Professor W. H. Hobbs (Michigan) in the Geography Section.

He said that the phenomenon of the desert mirage had long been familiar to travellers. It was due to a quiet condition of the lower atmosphere during the heat of the day, which made hot layers of air next the ground with cooler layers above. Within the polar regions a reversed condition, where the warmer layer of air was above the cooler one, was common.

"Thus objects which may be far below the natural horizon are brought into view and appear relatively near. This effect is greatly increased by the noteworthy clarity of the atmosphere within such regions, and it has been ascertained that objects have been clearly seen much in excess of 200 miles away.

"This quite remarkable phenomenon explains the gross understatements of distance which have been made by polar explorers and the fact that it is so many instances later explorers have been able to sail over the 'lands' which they have put upon the maps and so bring their discoveries, quite without warrant, into discredit."

Mexican Returns

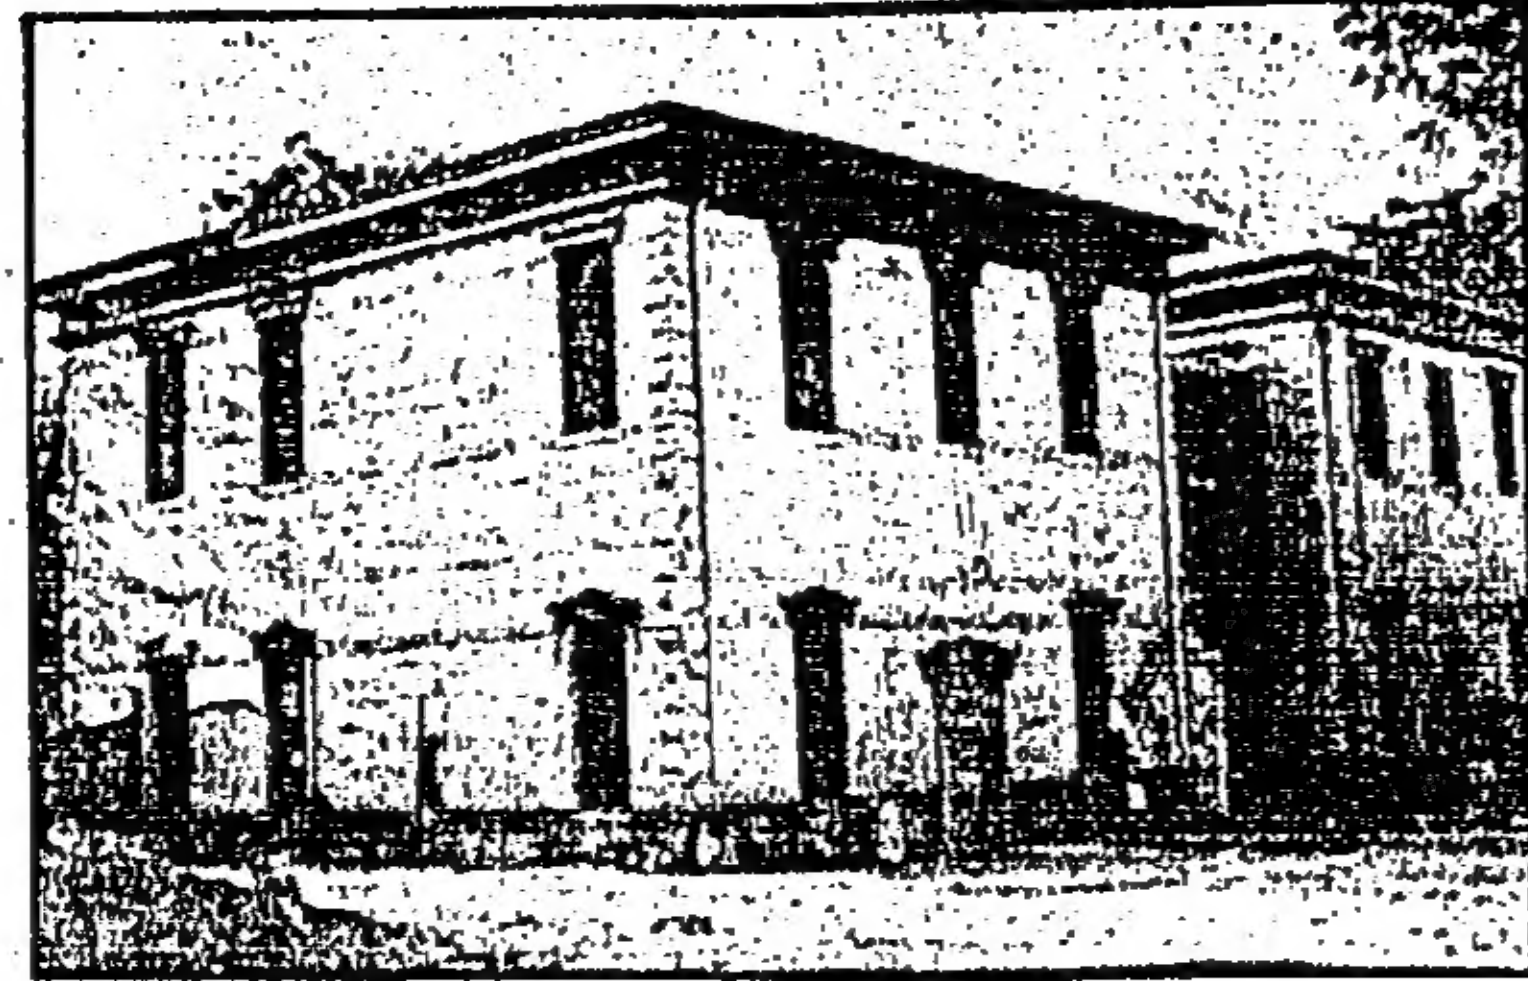

Rattler's Bite as Check on Poison

Rotan, Tex., Oct. 10.

A Mexican labourer has made news—he bit a rattlesnake. He was working on the ranch of J. C. Strubling, Jr., when struck on the hand. The labourer halted fellow workers who hastened to kill the reptile.

"Let me kill him, then I get well," cried the Mexican. He snared the snake with his hands, held it back of the head, wrapped a handkerchief about its middle, then bit through the cloth. The rattler was released and it died in a few minutes.

The ranch owner forced the Mexican to take a snake and the next day he was at work, insisting his own method cured him.—United Press.

A year ago Deputy Sheriff Martin Lange put up a desperate but futile fight to save a prisoner in the Siskiyou County, Cal., jail—shown above—from a mob that lynched the prisoner. Now hundreds of men are scouring the hills for two brothers accused of killing Lange and two others of an arresting party. Authorities fear another lynching should the men be captured alive and returned to this prison.

ITALIAN VILLAGE TRIES SINCE 1630 TO MAKE AMENDS FOR DEATH OF 40

Trenfo, Oct. 10. The populace of the small village of Condino has just celebrated a quaint and pious religious ceremony dear to their hearts for the last 300 years.

The procession of faithful left the small village on a recent Sunday morning and slowly climbed the slopes of Mount Melino, reaching a tiny, picturesque chapel where they dropped lilies and prayed for 30 minutes.

A sad legend is linked to this ceremony. In 1630, forty workmen of this village emigrated to Venice. A plague had spread in the floating city, and the workmen were refused entrance. They immediately returned to Condino but were not permitted to enter the village for fear they might have caught the disease. So they built their homes on the outskirts of the village on top of Mount Melino.

Their relatives living in Condino carried food and water to them half way up the mountain side. The 40 hermits lived in isolation for nearly three months, when suddenly one of them fell sick with the plague. Swiftly all died, praying God to pardon their selfish complaints who, stricken with grief, buried them on the mountain top.

A shepherd one cold winter morning brought the miraculous news to Condino that lilies had grown out of the snow on the workmen's graves and, henceforth, pilgrimages were organized every summer to venerate and cover with lilies the tombs of the hermits.

In 1800 a chapel was built by the faithful of Condino on Mount Melino, and this year plans for a new road leading from the village to the mountain top have been approved by the mayor.—United Press.

They Want To Make Life Simpler

Washington, Oct. 10.

Delegates to the third World power conference have plotted an international revolution, a bloodless uprising against hard labour and poor social conditions through man's inventive genius.

They gathered here, 2,600 scientists from 55 countries, for a six day convalesce with that one purpose in mind—to make life simpler and easier through increased use of electricity, oil, gas and coal.

Mixing their work with a round of social activities, they exchanged and pooled all power knowledge and progress made in their nations since the second conference in Berlin in 1930.

President Roosevelt dramatized the party's purpose when, by delivering a formal address, he pressed a golden telegraph key putting America's Boulder dam into actual operation producing cheap hydroelectric power.

Delegates met in two sessions daily discussing such topics as utilization of coal and petroleum products; significant trends in development of power resources; public regulation of private electric and gas utilities; organization, financing and operation of publicly-owned electric and gas utilities; conservation of natural power resources; national and regional planning for power development.

The United States was used as a basis for much of the discussion, especially the new deal's regulation of utility holding companies, its municipal power programme, and the government's Tennessee Valley authority and other "yardstick" experiments.

American private utility holders read papers attacking the administration for its federal power policy. Government officials answered, one advocating an amendment to the constitution enabling a still broader federal power programme.

Coal and petroleum was the first subject before the conference when it convened. Featured speakers included Sir John Cadogan, Chairman of England's Anglo-Finnish Oil company, and J. P. Williams, Jr., president of the American National Coal Association.—United Press.

RIFLEMEN BRILLIANTLY HOLD SOUTH CHINA Change Style After Being Three Down

CHAMPION TARLETON DEFEATED BRITISH FEATHERWEIGHT TITLE FOR MCGRORY

(By Fred Dartnell)

Liverpool, Sept. 25.

Twelve thousand people at Anfield Road Football Ground to-night saw Nel Tarleton (Liverpool) lose his British featherweight title on points to Johnny McGrory (Glasgow) in a 15-round fight.

Immediately after the fight Tarleton announced by microphone that he was retiring from the ring. Tarleton just turned the scales at 131b. McGrory weighed 131b. 20z. Such betting as took place clearly indicated Tarleton as favourite.

Towards the end Tarleton was fighting hard to keep his throne. He brought into play all his resource and skill. McGrory tried with equal desperation to gain the ascendancy, but lost the 14th round by a shade.

The momentous last round came with the issue still trembling in the balance. McGrory kept boring in, and with two left hooks reached the face. Tarleton was dead tired but caught his man with a right on the chin and repeated the dose.

The better boxing was with the champion and it was him the round. I thought it had just about kept him the title, but the referee counted up the points and then lifted McGrory's hand as high as the winner.

Tarleton appeared stunned by the verdict, but recovered himself and, putting his arm around McGrory's shoulders, shook hands with him like the gallant loser and sportsman that he is.

MOST DRAMATIC ROUNDS

Most dramatic rounds:
First Round.—Wearing a scarlet pair of knickers, McGrory went straight into the fray with a left lunge, but Tarleton was not to be caught napping, and a right uppercut sent the Scot back.

McGrory forced most of the pace and was clearly entitled to an even break in the first round.

Third Round.—Swaying and ducking in puzzling fashion McGrory soon struck up an attack which had Tarleton covering up on the ropes. So far Tarleton had lacked initiative, and his footwork looked slow. Midway through the round, though, he lashed out with a left to the stomach. McGrory fell, but was soon up and had a good share of the exchanges. Tarleton's round by narrow margin.

Fourth Round.—McGrory shaped with plenty of confidence. Then Tarleton started a hurricane rally, but it was soon over. When the bell went Tarleton was on the ropes, rather worried by his rival's attentions. Even round.

Ninth Round.—Tarleton made a better show and landed twice with the left, but he could not keep out the little dancing Scot. Even round.

DYNAMIC CLOSE TO STRUGGLE CHINESE FAIL TO PRESS HOME ADVANTAGE

(By "Veritas")

S. China "A" 3 R. U. Rifles 3
(Ferguson (2) Hartigan) (Tao Kwai-shing (2) Fung King-chung)

NCW and again one runs across a football match in Hongkong which is either such a brilliant exposition of the game, or is so exciting in incident that every kick or every move is followed with breath-taking interest. Such was yesterday's game at Seokunpoo in which Royal Ulster Rifles drew with South China "A" after facing a three goal deficit.

The last fifteen minutes were the most dramatic of the match, and sent the crowd into ecstasies of excitement. The huge concourse watched, and cheered, one of the most gallant recoveries seen for years on a local football field. Nine teams out of ten, being three goals down against South China "A", would have given up all hope and retired from the fray as gracefully as possible. The Rifles had other ideas, and so splendidly did they fight back that finally it was not a question of by how many goals would they lose, but whether they would win.

TWO SCHOOLS OF THOUGHT

Two schools of football thought were fully catered for in this match. The purists held sway in the first half, when the Chinese proceeded to indulge in that type of play which earned them peacocks of praise in Europe, and has for years placed them in a class of their own locally. Everything they did, conceived, or attempted had behind it the cool, calculating science of football. There were no such things as vagrant passes, haphazard clearances, or headstrong shots. Everything was planned and carried out with resourcefulness and skill. That was why South China scored three goals in the first half hour and were value for every one of them.

But in the second half it was the hard, fast, dynamic, let's-get-it-in-and-be-hungry boys school of thought which predominated, and which brought hundreds of spectators to their feet, cheering and screaming with excitement. It gave us some idea of what the hispanics mean when they talk about the British Army having its back to the wall in 1916. It wasn't pretty football, but it heated the blood and made one appreciate that the game can inspire fighting qualities of the best kind.

IDEALLY FAIR RESULT

The result was, I think, ideally fair for both sides fulfilled the conceptions we had of them, outlined very briefly in the foregoing paragraphs. They gave of their best: perhaps not all the time, but certainly 50-50. The match therefore provided us with stirring contrasts both in style and methods.

For the first half an hour, Lee Watson, who was sitting next to me, must have thought I had been writing out of the top of my hat about the smart and efficacious methods of the Rifles. And truth to tell I mentally rubbed my eyes once or twice and wondered whether their matches against the Club and the Police had been only dreams. There wasn't the slightest degree of similarity. In other words the Rifles were clean outplayed. Their marking was poor enough to disgrace a school third eleven, their tackling was indecisive and the attack didn't even function. It was not until the Chinese had scored three times that the soldiers began to get into their stride. Then a smart goal by Ferguson and the interval, gave them just the mental nourishment they required.

They came back in that second half and played a brand of football which had South China guessing. Through the middle went the ball with the ever alert Ferguson on the wall; half backs and backs went in first time, to tackle and tackled squarely, thereby preventing the Chinese from carrying out their pattern-weaving movements; and as the game progressed the Rifles increased the speed until the result of the match depended on whether Li Tin-sang and his colleagues could hold out. That they did is to their credit, but it was tough and go.

VERY FINE GOALS

But apart from the beautiful touches of the Chinese in the first half and the subsequent recovery of the Rifles, the game was notable for the very fine goals scored. Tso Kwai-shing collected two to start with which were gems in their own particular way—first time shots which would have beaten most goalkeepers. But the most spectacular was that of Hartigan, which was the fifth of the match. The ball was sent across from the right and Hartigan ran in and without hesitation took the ball just as it was about to hit the ground. It swerved round and found the back of the net so quickly that the eye could scarcely follow its flight. Another pretty goal was Ferguson's first, scored early in the opening half, when he rounded off one of those through-the-middle movements by heading in a high forward pass.

TENNIS FINALS

Ramsay's Walk Over
And Hung's Win

RECREIO CHAMPION

W. C. Hung and T. Ramsay will contest the final of the Kowloon Cricket Club tennis championships as a result of W. C. Hung's defeat of Guest yesterday morning.

An unusual and unsatisfactory feature of the competition this year is the walk-overs conceded in the important rounds.

Watson received a walk-over from Teddy Fincher in the semi-final and Watson yesterday gave a walk-over to Ramsay.

Yesterday's match between Hung and Guest was not a very interesting one, Guest being unable to adapt his style to the strong wind. Hung was in good form and co-ordinated his general play with some confident overhead work. Hung won, 6-4, 6-0, 6-2.

C. de R. TENNIS

A.V. Remedios defeated J. Gonzalez 3-3, 10-8, 6-3, in the final of the Club de Recreio tennis championship on Saturday afternoon.

A THREE-GOAL FINISH

An opportune recovery in the second half of the Royal Navy's match with Kowloon Chinese Football Club on the Peninsula yesterday enabled the sailors to snatch a point after being three goals in arrears at one stage. The final score was 3-3.

CANNELL'S SURPRISE

Soon after the resumption the Chinese added a third. Not until the closing stages did the Navy show any real determination in their attack, and it came as a complete surprise when Cannell put on three goals in rapid succession.

At times the Chinese were very decorative in their artistry, and played a very methodical game, their pattern weaving being truly entertaining. A wonderful understanding existed between Chow Man-chi and Wong Wing-hong, and the accuracy of Lau Chung-sang's shooting gave Langley some anxious moments. Li Kwok-chui was a tower of strength in the pivotal berth, and Mak Sul-hon excelled as a left back.

Following a free kick near the Chinese goal, Cannell swerved in a lovely goal to open for the Navy. This was drawing near the final whistle when Cannell increased the Navy lead with a beautiful left drive. These quick goals, stimulated the Navy forwards, and in the last minute Cannell sent home the equaliser.

Teams:
Royal Navy.—Langley; Underwood, Love, Clarkson, Bowers, McCall, Doran, Mugillston, Cannell, Ratcliffe and Westmore.
Kowloon Chinese.—Sui Din-lim; Kwok Ping-chung, Mak Sul-hon, Ho Choh-yin, Li Kwok-chui, Chan Ming-kwong; Tang Kwong-sam; Lau Chung-sang, Wong Wing-hon, Chow Man-chi and Fung King-yue.

NAVY AND ARMY RUGBY DEFEATS

Club's Double

The Hongkong Football Club rugby section opened their season on Saturday with a double victory: their first fifteen defeating the Royal Navy by 15 points (five tries) to six (two tries) and their "A" team defeating the Army "A" by seven points (a dropped goal and a try) to nil.

The main fixture of the afternoon was the meeting between the Club team and the Navy fifteen, which produced a fairly high standard of rugby. As it is, however, rather early in the season, the Navy players felt the effects of the heat, although the Club players stood it better as they have already had several practices.

The Club were the better in the scrums, heeling the ball splendidly, but they were inclined to be a little slow in the loose. Watson, one of the Club's newcomers, played a fine game, and should be a distinct asset this season. He was well supported by Munro, Coplin and Walkden.

Van Leeuwen, another newcomer, gave a very impressive display as a three-quarter, his speed being a great factor in his play.

Cotman, at back, was outstanding for the Navy, while they were supported by a useful three-quarter line, which showed up effectively throughout the game.

WEEK-END HOCKEY

Caer Clark Cup Holders Lose

The Hongkong Ladies' beat the C.B.A. Ladies who are Caer Clark Cup holders, by four goals to one in a friendly hockey game on the Naval ground at Happy Valley on Saturday.

The first half of the game was evenly played, though the Hongkong Ladies were more dangerous in front of goal.

The Hongkong Ladies opened the score midway in the first half through Miss M. Smalley, but after the interval Mrs. Burton, captain for the Central British Association, Miss J. Dzidzil scored the remaining three goals for the winning team.

FUSILIERS v. Y.M.C.A.

A friendly hockey match was played on Saturday at Shamshulpo when the Royal Welch Fusiliers beat

NEW BADMINTON ENTRY

The University of Hongkong have intimated that they will be entering a team in the Badminton competition this season. Their late entry is explained by the delayed formation of the Club.

The Y.M.C.A. by seven goals to one. The game in the first half was fast, and Boudon opened the score for the soldiers after ten minutes of play. After this goal the soldiers outclassed their opponents and scored three more goals before the interval.

The second period was more even. The soldiers scored three more goals against one by their opponents.

SCHOOLS AT PLAY

The Ellis Kadoodle School for Indians did extremely well on Saturday to beat Queen's College in a friendly match at Caroline Hill by two goals to nil, scored by Telok Singh. The winners were well served by Telok Singh and Mohinder Singh, in goal. Sarwan Singh, the Queen's College captain, was outstanding for the losers.

INTERNATIONAL
BOWLS
SEMI-FINALSPortugal And England
Successes

The semi-finals of the Gutierrez International Shield, lawn bowls competition, were played at the Kowloon Bowling Green Club yesterday. Portugal defeated Malaya, conquerors of India, last year's champions, 24 shots to 10, and Scotland went down to England 12 shots to 20.

In the match between Malaya and Portugal, a high standard of bowling was put up by both sides, many close heads being seen. The Portuguese, however, were always slightly superior both individually and as a team, particularly H. A. Alves and R. F. Luz who gave splendid displays and were mainly responsible for most of the shots. F. V. V. Ribeiro also sent down some good woods, and C. G. Silva was consistent without being brilliant.

Of the losers, A. Bakar and A. R. Dallah were outstanding, especially the latter, who saved his side more than once with accurate drives. M. R. Abbas and A. M. Wahab were inclined to be inconsistent, and failed to maintain the form with which they helped their side to beat India last week.

The teams were:
Portugal.—F. V. V. Ribeiro, C. G. Silva, H. A. Alves and R. F. Luz (skip).

Malaya.—A. Bakar, A. M. Wahab, M. R. Abbas and A. R. Dallah (skip).

ENGLAND v. SCOTLAND

Although the standard of play was not as high as that in the Portugal-Malaya match, the England-Scotland game was a closely-contested affair, the former winning by eight shots, the score being 20-12. England, represented by C. S. Simmons, W. E. Hollands, A. W. Grimmit, and S. Randle (skip), led throughout the match, gradually increasing the lead as the game progressed.

Scotland was represented by J. Watson, J. McKelvie, J. C. Chalmers and W. Mair (skip).

England's victory was largely due to the high standard of play, and the fact that the team was ably supported by Hollands and Grimmit. Watson and McKelvie were outstanding for Scotland.

M. C. C. Tourists
Facing Hard
Task Abroad
"Fergie" Goes Along
With Spare Trousers

(By G. R. W. Smith)
Sunday Express

It was not my idea of a perfect day to say good-bye yesterday to those lucky friends of mine who set forth from Waterloo on a seven months' trip that will take them round the world playing cricket, seeing the sights, and being entertained as ambassadors of sport.

As the smiling face of Gubby Allen, surrounded by a halo of other members of the M.C.C. team, receded down the line while we poor stay-at-homes cheered like mad on the platform, I felt like taking the next train to land me in the Orion, Australia bound.

HARDEST WORKER

But the task of the 17 tourists, and of their manager, Captain R. Howard, will be light compared with that of one man who will accompany them, unaccompanied and unaided, nevertheless, the hardest worked member of the party.

ALL THE ODD JOBS

I found him last week at Scarborough, where he has been helping the All-India team. He is travelling back with them this week as far as Toulon, where he joins the Orion with the M.C.C. team aboard.

A slight, wiry, Australian-born Scot, with bronzed face and blue eyes, silver-haired over the eyes, he has a habit of looking at the eyes, which is "Fergie," unknown to the majority of cricket fans, and yet one of the greatest personalities in world cricket.

"I look after all the baggage and its transport," he said, "the trains and tickets for the players, and do all the odd jobs that the team manager cannot pretend to handle."

"It's a terrific job being team manager of a touring side. Few people realise the responsibilities, and I take as much off his hands as I can."

Luftwaffe. In 30 years he has never lost even a suitcase.
Scoring he regards almost as a sideline, but to me his labours in that direction are in the nature of one of the seven wonders of sport.

He keeps the score in the ordinary way for official purposes, but he has a private system of his own by which he keeps a record of every ball bowled in Test matches.

FARNES' TROUSERS

And here's a tall-piece. Just before the M.C.C. left Southampton yesterday, Kenneth Farnes, Essex amateur, remembered that he had left his spare trousers behind. Captain Howard came to the rescue and wired "Fergie" to bring them overland to Toulon. Knowing "Fergie" I can bet that the trousers will be with him on the quayside.

POLICE
IMPROVE
EAST LANCs
HELD TO DRAW

Contrary to general expectations, the Police managed to force a division of points in their meeting with the East Lancashire in the senior soccer division yesterday the final score being one goal all.

The Police side had improved out of all showing on their previous performances this season, and were unlucky in failing to take both the points.

Moss in the leader's position was the outstanding member of his side and a little more support from his inside men, particularly Gough, would undoubtedly have secured maximum points. Britain and Blackburn at back had a strenuous time, the latter in particular wrecking most of Ridings' solo efforts to reach the net.

The Police side had improved out of all showing on their previous performances this season, and were unlucky in failing to take both the points.

The resumption found the Police with a one goal handicap which appeared likely to be reduced at any moment. The equaliser arrived by way of Moss, who snatched a pass from the right and netted from outside the penalty area.

Teams:—McHardy; Blackburn, Britain, North, Brooks, Parker, Pile, Johnson, Moss, Gough, Tenet, East Lancs.—Oxford; Swain, Steele, Thorpe, Crowther, Ekersey, Griffin, Smith, German, Sandford, Ridings.

FIRE IN CITY

SERIOUS OUTBREAK AT
KAU U FONG

Over $5,000 worth of property was destroyed by a fire which broke out about 12.30 p.m. yesterday in the densely populated district of Kau U Fong, Central area.

The outbreak originated from the second floor of No. 60, Kau U Fong, occupied by the Wing Hing Loong, shirt makers. Fanned by a strong breeze, the blaze spread rapidly to the second floors of the adjoining houses, Nos. 62 and 64, and had it not been for the prompt arrival of the fire appliances more serious damage might have been caused.

As it was, almost an hour had elapsed before the fire was subdued. Curiously enough, neither the ground floor nor the third floors of the houses were seriously damaged. There were no casualties and the exact cause of the outbreak is not known, though it is believed it was due to the carelessness of a cigarette-smoker.

The premises at No. 60 were also occupied by the Wing Hing Loong, while No. 64 was used as a residence.

WHAT HAS COME BEFORE: Philippe Martin, a young Parisian actor, takes a day's leave from his job at a famous motion picture theatre, and taking her for his friend, Yvonne, through the middle of a reform luncheon, Philippe first loses his job and then is brought to trial. He is sentenced to pay 1,000 francs or spend three days in jail.

Chapter Four

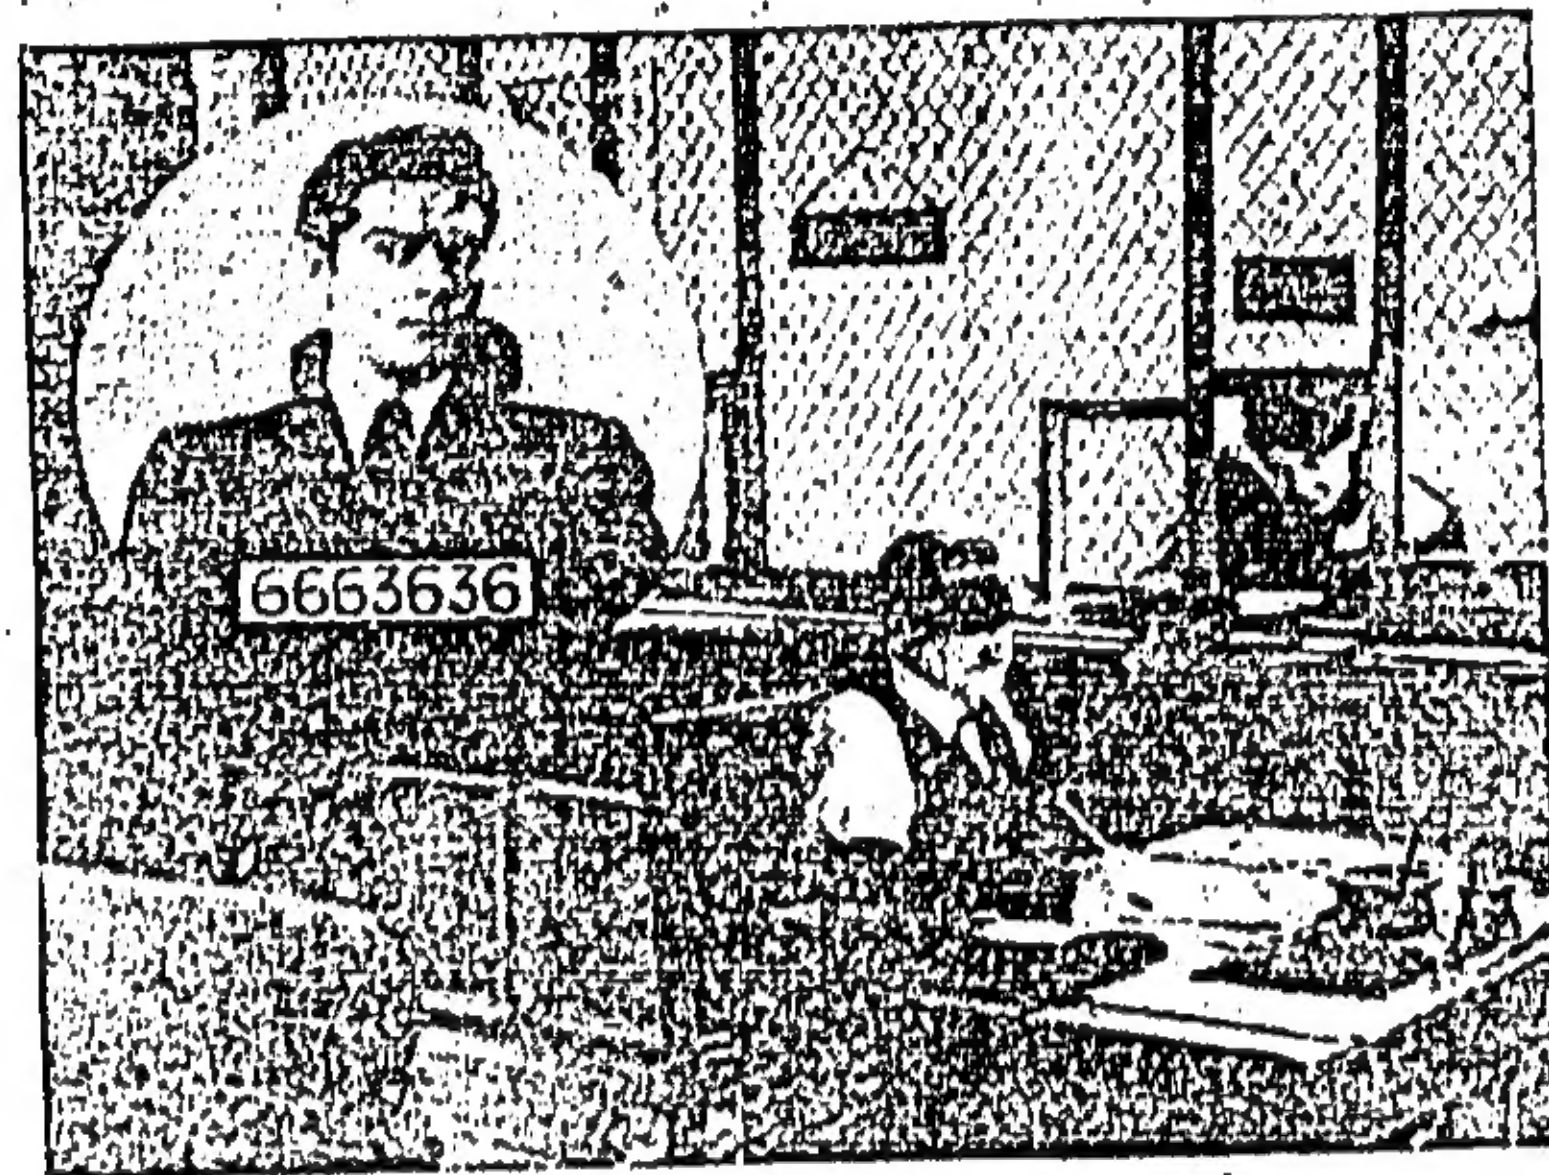

FAME COMES TO PHILIPPE

Monique rushes over to the editor's office of the clerk of court. "If you please," she says nervously, "I'd like to pay the fine in the Martin case."

The clerk takes the money and hands her a receipt.

"Will he be released immediately?" she inquires anxiously.

"Immediately." The clerk turned to an attendant and handed him a card. "Release Number 6663636." Number 6663636 was being carried from the Bureau Bureau when the order came for his release. "Who paid the fine?" he asks in bewilderment. "A girl? Was she pretty?"

The attendant shrugs his shoulders. "Well anyway she has two of the prettiest little ears."

Philippe waits to hear no more but dashes out of the courthouse in time to catch up with Monique who is hurrying along. "Please," Monique calls, "please."

"You've made me very happy and... grateful."

Monique turns upon him furiously. "Will you leave me alone or shall I call the police?"

Philippe is not in the least put out. "Do you want to have to pay another fine for me?"

"It would be for you," Monique says angrily.

"Then why did you pay it?" Philippe asks.

Monique hesitates before answering. "Do you remember the day when I told you about the ridiculous publicity to go on... The Monster in Jail... The Monster released... The Monster contemptuously... The Monster?"

"Then you don't think I am one?" Philippe asks.

"I don't care what you are! I don't want to have anything more to do with you! She turns to go, but Philippe catches her wrist.

"I won't let you go until you permit me to repay you," he says. "Handily."

"You won't!" exclaims Monique.

"Very well! Pay me then."

This is a "stumper," Philippe, who has never seen a thousand francs, begins to stammer explain-an injustice. Perhaps you have talents I may have overlooked. Let me see your profile. M-m-m. Just as I thought. There's something there. And I understand you have a voice. Give me your B-flat."

Philippe clears his throat preparatory to launching a B-flat that will impress even Martin, but the producer interrupts him.

"Never mind. I know it's good. You know, ten days ago I said to myself, 'That Martin has something'."

"Is that why you fired me?" Philippe asks.

"My dear fellow, that was nothing at all. Only a joke. You have a great future, Martin. I'm having the whole show re-written for you. And now to clarify—were you not how much?"

"Five hundred francs," the producer whispers. But he is too late.

"Three hundred francs," says Philippe.

"I heard you," says Martin, pointing to Philippe. "Very well, we'll make it."

Philippe is about to grab the offer but fate again intervenes. The conversation is interrupted by the sound of water-boiling over. In a dish that Martin and the producer have been concocting for supper, Martin and to clarify—were you not how much?"

"Five hundred francs," the producer whispers. But he is too late.

A HUNDRED YEARS HENCE?

No. II.—Medicine, Dress and Housing

By Our

Medical Correspondent Authority on Dress

By An

Housing Expert

ONE HUNDRED years hence the medical services of mankind will probably be divided into two main groups. An international preventive medicine Convention will have become necessary as a result of the incursions of rapid air transport, and this body will rigidly control and prevent the spread of all the infectious diseases—such as some disorders, such as cancer, which by that time will have shown to have an infection as part of their cause.

Another important aspect of the international health services will be concerned with nutrition and diet, so that deficiency diseases will have been completely stamped out and resistance to disease raised to a high level. Wholesale immunisation of young children against each of the usual childhood ailments (measles, etc.) will be carried out as a matter of course; and other common infectious such as "colds" and consumption will be likewise completely controlled by preventive inoculation.

The second group of health work will be on a national or regional basis and its activities will be in three main divisions—maternity and care of the child, dealing with the results of accidents and provision for easy dying. With a decreasing population it is clear that in a hundred years the birth of a child will be a most important matter and one in which the State will be vitally interested. Picked members of the medical profession will be drafted into a national maternity service, and an important part of their work will also be supervising the health of the growing child with the aid of the international body already mentioned.

Practically all the surgery of the future will be concerned with the results of accidents in industry and in the daily life of the motorist. The aviator individual member of the community. Television will make it easy for the direction of this type of work and of the maternity services to be carried out by centrally-placed experts controlling special areas.

Old age, and the wearing out of the body's tissues, will be the usual cause of death among those who survive accidents, and for this group special homes have been set up where, even if euthanasia or easy death has not been legalised, such measures will be employed as to make man's last illness as comfortable as possible. Old-fashioned general practitioners trained in the early Twentieth Century methods will be used to staff these establishments.

WITHOUT knowing precisely what is going to happen to the world during the next hundred years it is impossible to predict what people will wear.

From far leaves to farthingale, from the bound feet of China to the side middle riding habit of a French queen; from the flowing draperies of Greece and Rome to the short skirts of the European War and post-war period women's clothes have always reflected current history and attitudes of mind. Presumably they always will.

If the present trend of scientific and commercial thought, invention and discovery continues unchecked there are some things of which we can be certain.

Air conditioning, high speed travelling, the possibility of surrounding oneself with any desired degree of temperature and of aural and visual communication wherever one is will mean highly specialised and probably identical outer garments for both sexes.

No one will wear the same undergarment twice. It will be both unnecessary and a serious offence against the stern hygienic laws.

Questions of coiffure and cosmetics are more complicated. Will the art of making and anastomosing hair have become so marvellous that it will all crop our heads and buy our wigs as we now buy our hats?

And will cosmetic productions approximate so exactly to Nature at her best that no one will be able to detect the synthetic from the true?

Or will the increased knowledge of glandular power over height, weight, complexion and mentality, and the far-reaching effect of diet be so complete and widely known that the use of any cosmetic whatsoever will be a black mark, a confession that the individual has been lazy or self-indulgent or has failed in a proper balance of diet or treatment?

There remains the fact that women want to attract and men want to be attracted. We may presume, therefore, that when not engaged in work, travelling or sports, the sexes will dress quite differently; though whether it will be a question of delicate dainties for women and stately dignified robes for men or what it will be, remains to be seen by our granddaughters.

38 YEARS IN PRISON"*Ex-Convict's "I Shall Keep My Word and Go Straight"

(By A Special Correspondent)

*"I mean to keep my promise to the Judge to go straight.
Freedom after all this time—it doesn't seem real... but I know I shall succeed."*In these words ex-convict William Kelly, aged 55, a painter, told me of the hope with which he faced the future following his release at the Old Bailey earlier in the day after serving terms of imprisonment amounting to nearly 38 years.He owed what he described as "the only chance I ever had" to the Old Bailey Recorder, Sir Holman Gregory, K.C., before whom he appeared on a charge of breaking and entering a warehouse and stealing a coat.Murder Of A Racketeer*THREE POLICEMEN SUSPENDED POLITICS LINKED
WITH CRIMEFollowing the shooting of Robert Sullivan, a racketeer, at Keyport, New Jersey, three policemen have been suspended, and Reuter understands that serious charges may be preferred against them.From A Special Correspondent
New York, Oct. 10.
Like many racketeers, Robert Sullivan, former pugilist and base dock, has been killed by his rivals.Arrested many times, Sullivan, who was known for some obscure reason as "The Farmer," had always walked out of the Courts boasting of political influence. Although the police knew he was involved in many shady transactions and suspected him
of many crimes, including murder,
they had come to feel it futile to arrest him.It was not until after he was dead that they found documentary proof of his link with politics, and then it was in a form which implicated nobody else. It was simply a memorandum book in which "The Farmer" kept a record of expenditures in the recent primaries. He had employed "Labour Committees" for both Democrats and Republicans.

21,000 DOLLARS

For the Democrats he had employed ten men in each of New York City's five boroughs at 35 dollars each, and also obtained for them a "campaign manager" at 150 dollars
a week, plus expenses. For the Republicans he has also engaged ten men for each borough at 30 dollars a week. At the foot of the page, unexplained, but open to inference that it was the sum he had taken for electioneering, appeared the total of 21,000 dollars.It is assumed that, recruited from dockers, these committees had engaged in thuggery, intimidating voters, or furnishing "protection."
Now the advocates of the trial as Sullivan's political activities are responsible for the shooting. They say he had attempted to "muscle in" on other racketeers in selling lotteries.
It was also possible he might be involved in warfare among Labour racketeers, since in addition to the memorandum book and eighty dollars in cash the police found in his pockets several membership cards for the Dockers Union.15-Foot Shark
As Bait*TO CATCH 100 FOOT
"WHITE DEATHS"Declaring that Australia had
"the finest fishing coast in the world," Zane Grey the American novelist and big game fisherman has just left Sydney for America.He is returning in 1938 to seek enormous "white death" sharks in 2,500-fathom depths, outside the Barrier Reef. He told Austral News that he had seen sharks 40 to 55 in length, and that he believed eighty to a hundred-footers were to be caught, using other sharks 10 ft. to 15 ft. long as bait on the end of steel cables.
He had authenticated stories of fishermen that when towing sizeable sharks, a greater and invariably white shark had come along and swallowed the catch.Mr. Grey has already discovered in these waters a giant marlin weighing probably 1,500 to 1,800 lb., a new variety of spearfish and a smaller spearfish, thought to be a baby marlin, but which was really a mature fish of some new kind.He was on licence from preventive detention when he committed the crime two months ago, and mercy was farthest from his mind.
He expressed his contrition, and said that he had been driven into crime because he had been unable to find work.Sir Holman Gregory gave him a keen look and said: "Do you solemnly and sincerely declare your intention to go straight for the rest of your life?"Kelly glanced up hopefully, and replied: "I do, my lord."Sir Holman: "I will give you a fresh start in life if you will really respond to the kindness I am going to extend to you."Kelly murmured his heartfelt thanks, and, bound over for three years, walked out to his first taste of real freedom since 1897."I was 18 when I was sentenced to one month's imprisonment for stealing an overcoat," he said. "I always maintained my innocence of the theft, but there it was.""That was the turning-point in my life. I was embittered, and I became reckless. My next term was six weeks as a suspected person, and from then, 12 months, 18 months, three years' penal servitude, six years' penal servitude, seven years' penal servitude, and years of preventive detention.""Two months ago my wife was forced to leave me when I was arrested in connection with the present case.""We had been married since 1911, and she had stuck by me all the years I had been 'in and out.' I don't blame her for leaving me, but now I want to find her. I want her to come back to me, as I intend to go straight."THE STRANGEST AIR COMPETITION*FOUR RIVAL ATLANTIC
SERVICE METHODSBy An Aeronautical Correspondent
Preparations for Britain's Atlantic air service are turning into one of the strangest of all aerial competitions. The Air Ministry, to ensure that the service would start by one means or another, adopted for experiment four different methods of making the Atlantic crossing.Now the advocates of the different methods are regarding the trial as a contest which will prove or dis-prove their type of machine which,
in an emergency and in all but rough weather, could descend upon
the water in mid-ocean. It is the ability to overcome head-winds more important than the ability to make a forced landing?The long-range flying boat is likely to be the first method tried because the Caledonia, which is to be devoted to this experiment, started her trials last week. She will cruise at about 150 miles an hour and will be a top speed in the neighbourhood of 180 miles an hour. The Albatross four-engined land plane, however, will cruise at 200 miles an hour and have a top speed proportionately higher.SPEED AND SAFETYThe question which these two types must resolve is whether the extra speed outweighs the advantages of having a type of machine which,
in an emergency and in all but
rough weather, could descend upon
the water in mid-ocean. It is the ability to overcome head-winds more
important than the ability to make a forced landing?The composite aircraft and the catapult launching are both methods, though widely differing in conception, for getting a heavily loaded aeroplane into the air and so enabling a given weight to be carried by a smaller machine, with less engine power. The upper component of the Mayo composite aircraft should have a speed of 165 miles an hour, and should be able to do the Atlantic crossing against a 60-miles an hour head-wind.These two methods, when they have been thoroughly tried, will resolve the question of whether the necessary acceleration can be imparted to a highly loaded aeroplane
by a catapult or whether the entirely novel method of the composite launching and climb will be necessary for really long range work.
Finally, the better method of each pair will be tested one against the other.

Is Torn Apart
For Inspection*BRITISH ASTRONOMER TELLS WHAT IS GOING ON INSIDE OLD SOL

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 8.

Literally "tearing the cover off the ball" in an attempt to see what's inside, Sir Arthur Stanley Eddington, famed British astronomer, last night introduced some 2,500 distinguished guests to the world within the sun,
a super-heated realm of 10,000,000 degrees centigrade. Here atoms, electrons, and x-rays frolic at high and seek and travel with the speed of light.Preceding Sir Arthur on the same Harvard lecture platform was Dr. A.
Lawrence Lowell, president-emeritus of the university. His talk on "An Example from the Evidence of Illustration" was a highlight in the introductory session of the symposium on "Factors Determining Human Behaviour."SEMI-TECHNICALSir Arthur's talk was one of those rare semi-technical addresses given by a man who ranks with Dr. Albert Einstein and Dr. Max Planck
as a leader in cosmological theories.
He attempted what no other natural scientist would dare to do—to give a detailed account of the merry-go-round of fragmentary atoms as they are thought to be frantically being built up and torn down in the interior of the sun."Now," he declared, "we can see more or less what is happening at 10,000,000 degrees centigrade (18,- 000,000 degrees Fahrenheit) in the solar interior. Crowded together within a cubic centimetre there are more than a quadrillion atoms, twice as many free electrons and 20,000 trillion x-rays.""The x-rays are travelling with the speed of light, and the electrons at 10,000 miles a second. Most of the atoms are hydrogen atoms or, rather, since they have lost their satellite electrons, simply travelling at 300 miles a second. Here and there there will be heavier atoms, such as iron, lumbering along at 40 miles a second."SMALL WONDER"I have told you the speeds and the state of congestion of the road, and I will leave you to imagine the collisions. Small wonder if the atoms are found with their garb of electrons badly torn, or even stripped naked."The stripped atoms are pictured as continually capturing free electrons,
and so to speak, repairing their dress;
but scarcely has the captured electron settled when an x-ray bears down on it and explodes it away."That is not a fanciful picture," explains Sir Arthur, "these are phenomena which have been found happening in the laboratory when we use x-rays of the same wave-length as in the sun. There is no need to go beyond the limits of terrestrial experiment to discover what is happening to the population, and all the calculations have an experimental basis."

FRONT and HANDBAG

Here is a smart dicky and a handbag to match, which you can make yourself.

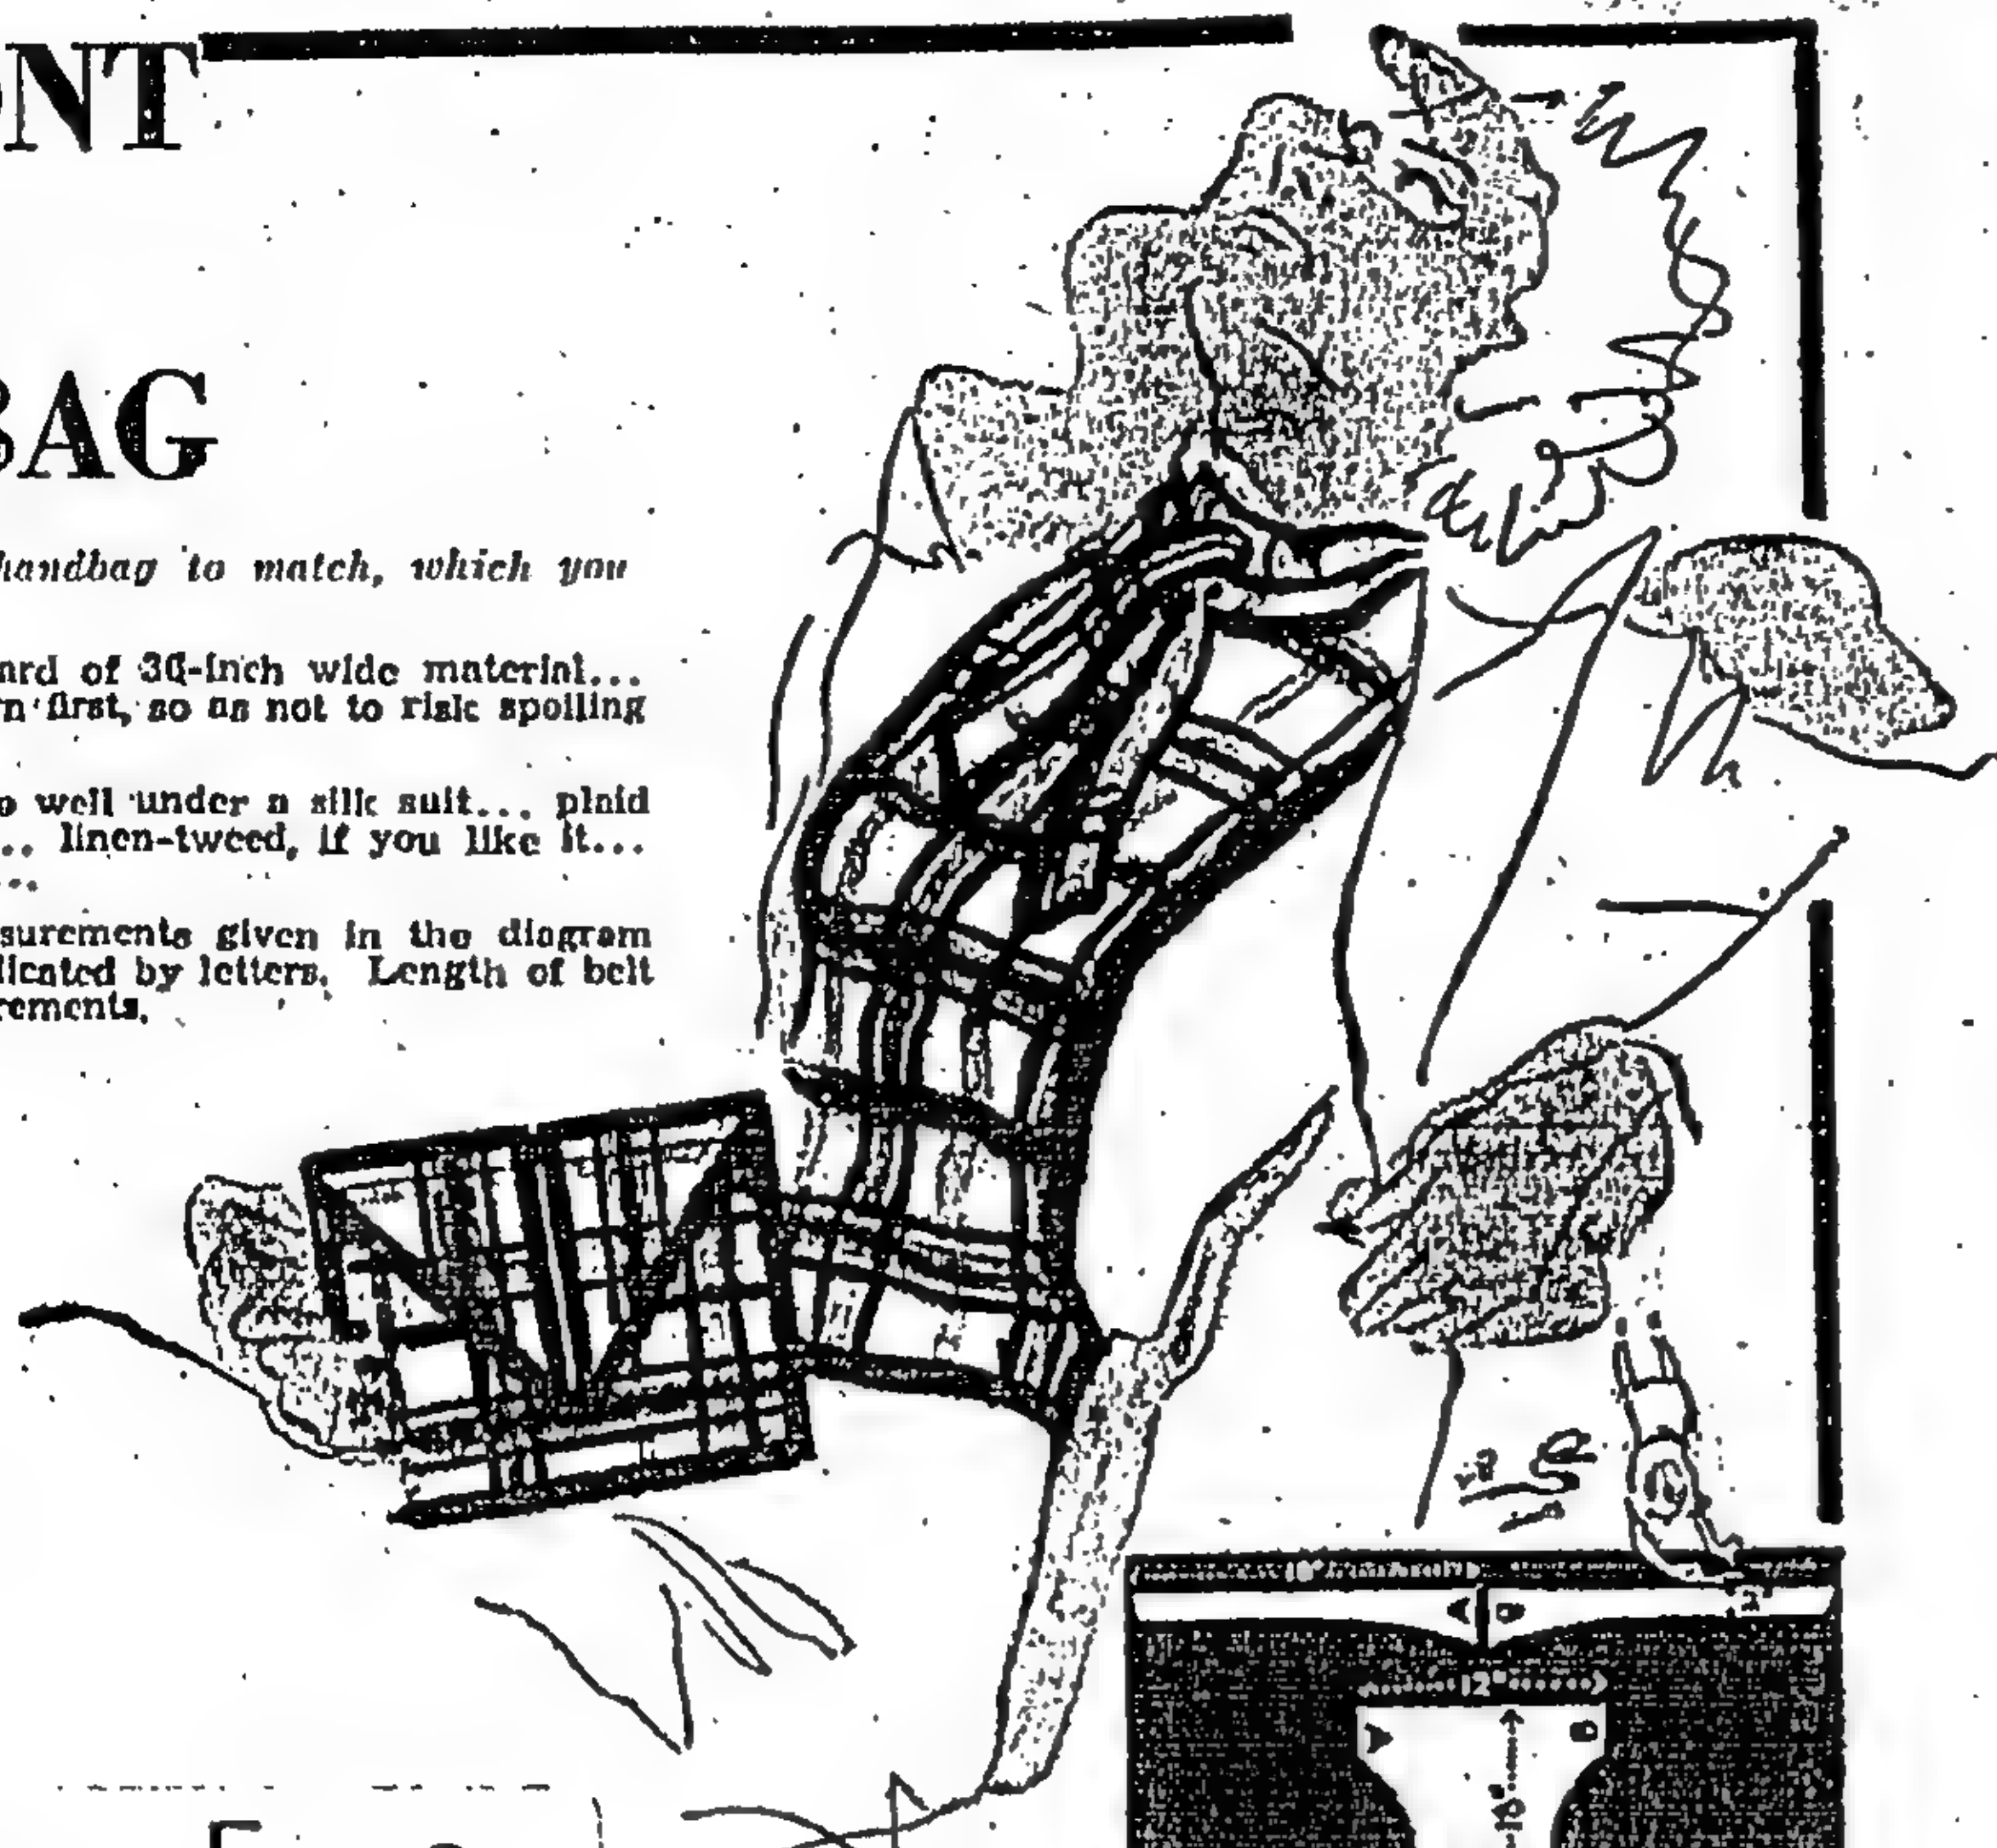

YOU NEED: Three-quarters of a yard of 36-inch wide material... Cut out a paper pattern first, so as not to risk spoiling the stuff.

FABRIC: Suit turtan taffeta would go well under a silk suit... plaid flannel under a cloth coat... linen-tweed, if you like it... or in a plain coloured hunting-cloth...

HOW TO CUT: Cut front to measurements given in the diagram and join up as indicated by letters. Length of belt tabs depends upon individual measurements.

BAG: Front and back should look exactly the same—both with flaps. Fasten with snap fasteners or initials. To make: cut from doubled material. Stitch the two pieces together, leaving the top open. Press the fold where indicated. Pull corners A and B down to centre fold (dot in first diagram), and fold back half of the square formed.

TO WEAR: The front, you can either tie the top of the apron at the back of the neck or bring the tags round as shown.

Have you a Camera Eye?

WHEN I watch the modern Talkies, and see how the latest detail is caught by the camera and magnified on the screen, I sometimes wonder how an ordinary person's day would appear if it were recorded.

I was hurrying to the station when I caught sight of my fish man. He was holding one end of a little enameled can, like the one I used to fetch milk in when we lived in a country village long ago.

The other end was in his pony's mouth. The pony was having a long drink with obvious enjoyment, neither knowing nor caring how funny he looked with the blue can sticking out of his mouth.

"He loves his cup of tea," called the fish man cheerily as I passed. "Wise"

KIPPERS FOR BREAKFAST

Kipper Scramble

Here is another way of serving kippers that is very popular at breakfast time. Allow one kipper per person, or two if they are small ones.

The night before they are required, place the kippers in your frying pan, cover with water, and bring to the boil very slowly. Simmer for five minutes. When they are cold, remove the flesh from the bone and break up with a fork.

In the morning, take half as many eggs as you took kippers, and allow two tablespoonsful of milk to each egg. Beat the eggs and milk together, and add the flaked kipper. Season with pepper, but no salt.

Melt a little butter in a saucepan, pour in the mixture, and stir, until it thickens. Serve on rounds of buttered toast.

Fillet of Bloater

Bloaters, like kippers, are another delicious variety of the herring. For some reason, they are not eaten so freely as kippers, but cook them like this and you will see how popular they will be.

Break off the heads, split the fish open down the back and remove the flesh in long fillets. Dip each piece in melted butter, then in cheese, and lay them in a greased fireproof dish. Bake for ten minutes in a brisk oven or, if you prefer, grill them for two or three minutes. Serve on oblong slices of buttered toast, and if for a special occasion, put a sprinkling of chopped gherkin on top.

EMBROIDERY of all kinds plays an important part in autumn fashions. It was used in a number of interesting ways in the collection of models which Mme. Machinka showed to invited guests in London recently.

The more original the design, the better the effect. One afternoon dress in the collection, in finely ribbed black silk with the fashionable dull surface, shows a draped bodice. This opens over a bright red front on which a calm terrier is embroidered in gold thread, and the idea is repeated again on the deep red cuffs.

This frock has a complementary coat, made from black woollen material with a knotty surface. It fastens close up round the throat, is belted at the waist and is trimmed with the new Persian lamb cloth, so like the fur that it is almost impossible to tell the difference.

Dressmakers remain faithful to black.

One of the most attractive dinner or cinema frocks chosen by Mme. Machinka is made in fine satin-spotted black taffeta.

A blouse coatee, fastened with a wide bow at the waist, is worn over a dainty sleeveless blouse of kilted peach-tinted chiffon edged with chiffon flowers, each centred with a diamond.

REARMAMENT "FOR DEFENCE ONLY" WHY FUEHRER SUPPRESSED LIBERTY

By A. J. CUMMINGS

MR. LLOYD GEORGE has returned from his visit to Germany and Hitler in magnificent health and spirits. For two hours he talked to me in absorbing detail of his impressions and conclusions.

He thoroughly enjoyed his visit and he thoroughly enjoyed his talks with Hitler, for whom he evidently entertains a sincere admiration.

His views on Hitler's intentions in Europe, on German policy and on some other characteristics of the Germany of to-day are certainly not those of many other Liberal visitors to Germany.

They do not, let me frankly admit, accord with all my own direct impressions derived from personal visits.

A Menace? That Depends—

But Mr. Lloyd George expressed himself with the courage and plainness of speech one always expects from him. He is full of his subject and just as full of confidence as the rest of us in our own interpretation of facts as we see them.

He received me in his library at Churt with great good humour.

"I read with interest," he began with a laughing grimace, "your savage attack on the German menace published just before I reached home."

"I rather gather," I replied, "that you do not regard Germany as a menace to the peace of Europe?"

"That depends on the way Germany is treated. If she is attacked and her territories invaded as they were by Poincaré in 1923 then she will no longer crouch peacefully under the lash. You may call this new attitude of self-defence and self-respect a menace to peace."

"Has not Hitler set up a military dictatorship?"

"A Dictatorship, yes, but no more militarist than any other ruler who relies on his Army to defend his frontiers," replied Mr. Lloyd George. "Blum, the Socialist Premier, has millions of fully trained and equipped soldiers behind him."

Two Kinds of Dictators

"I am going to give you my candid opinion. I am neither a Fascist nor a Communist. I went out to Germany as a Liberal. I looked at Germany through Liberal eyes, I have come back as a Liberal. But Liberals who refuse to face facts are the curse of Liberalism."

"If we want peace amongst the nations we must accept as a regrettable but indubitable fact that most of the countries of Europe are ruled by dictators. Two have recently joined the ranks of Dictatorships."

"Liberalism does not mean that you should choose for another country the form of Constitution by which it should be governed."

"There are two kinds of dictators. One is the ruler who determines how his own country can best be governed. The other is the one who presumes to dictate to another country how it should be ruled. The latter is not Liberalism—it is just impertinence."

"What do you regard as the facts about the menace of German militarism?"

GERMAN ARMY NOT READY YET

"My answer is that Germany has no desire to attack any country in Europe and that Hitler is arming for defence and not for attack."

"My conviction is that for at least ten years war between Russia and Germany is impracticable. Even if Germany desired war, which she certainly does not unless other better-equipped nations butt in and attack her,

LLOYD GEORGE

"I am still a Gladstonian"

HITLER WOULD BE

TOO OLD

"Hitler himself admitted to someone that I met that his army could not be ready as an attacking force for 15 or 20 years. 'Have you thought how old I shall be then?' he said. 'At that age men do not seek wars.'"

"Doesn't he want to fight Russia?" I asked.

"No," said Mr. Lloyd George; "he has a fanatical hatred of Bolshevism. For 17 years he has made speeches against Russia and Bolshevism. He devoted the propaganda of years to genuine anti-Communist front in Germany. But he scoffs at the suggestion that he means to march to Moscow or that he covets the Ukraine."

"No," went on Mr. Lloyd George, "though Hitler naturally wants Memel and Danzig, which are as German as Hull is English, and much more so than Cardiff is Welsh, he has no desire to absorb millions of Slavs, whom he despises and would regard as an offence to the doctrine of racial purity."

"Is he afraid of an invasion of Germany by Soviet Russia?"

"I think there is a genuine apprehension of an armed attack from Communist Russia. In 1920 the Red Armies, badly equipped as they were, got as far as Warsaw."

"On the other hand, a very able German soldier told me that the hopelessly defective transport organisation on the western borders of Russia makes a Russian invasion of Germany on any scale of magnitude a strategic impossibility for at least ten years."

"But Hitler is very anxious for France to renounce her pact with Russia?"

"Yes, that is so. I pointed out to him that he could hardly expect a Socialist French Premier to renounce a pact with Russia which had been signed by a predecessor from the Right."

"What do you think of Germany under the dictatorship?"

"Hitler has done great things for his country. He is unquestionably a great leader. There is not the slightest doubt that the workers and particularly the younger generation are absolutely devoted to him."

"He has effected a remarkable improvement in the working conditions of both men and women. Of that there can be no manner of doubt. And they appreciate it."

"They look upon him as a monarch. Though the critics think said and done by Goering and Goebbels or other subordinates they will never say a word against Hitler. He is a dynamic personality."

"It is a grave misfortune that great leaders are not being thrown up by the European democracies, since the war they have arisen only in the authoritarian States."

DEMOCRATIC LEADERS

ARE FUMBLING

"That is the most serious feature of modern Europe. The dictators are acting whilst the democratic leaders are fumbling. That is the real menace."

"An American," I interjected, "pointed out the other day that a large part of Europe is now being governed not by men of brains but by dynamic morons."

"Whatever Hitler may be he is certainly no mechanical moron. It is foolish to suggest it," said Mr. Lloyd George, laughing, "nor is Mussolini."

"It was the weakness of democracies—the failure, if you like, of a Popular Front to unite the progressive sections—which forced Italy into Dictatorship. The failure of the German democratic parties to make effective use of their opportunities which had reduced Germany to the lowest ebb, and thus made inevitable either the Hitler or some other revolution."

UNITY BEFORE LIBERTY

"What do you think of Hitler's methods of establishing his regime?"

"He built up his movement by 14 years of propaganda under a regime of freedom—free speech and a free press. But it is maintained by the methods of revolution."

"Germany had to decide in a great national emergency between unity and liberty. She chose unity and she still regards it as the only possible choice."

"I am convinced that in the face of the hostile nations with which they are surrounded the vast majority of Germans of all classes dread a return to the old faction fights that followed their defeat."

"And German unity involved German concentration camps?"

"I need hardly say that I am no advocate of the immuring of political opponents in concentration camps. But unfortunately once you establish an authoritarian State it is the only alternative to the wholesale massacres which disgraced the first years of the Russian Revolution."

"Did you see any of the concentration camps while you were in Germany?"

"No, I did not visit the Berlin area. But I accept the description of their condition. It is well that the few Liberal spirits still left in the world should realise what are the alternatives to free democratic institutions."

"The suppression of liberty in Germany as in all countries under a dictatorship," Mr. Lloyd George went on, "is a terrible thing to an old Liberal like myself. But you must remember that the German democracy, like Italian democracy, was very young. It was not deep-rooted as in our country. Political and personal liberty does not yet mean to Germany what it means to us."

"Moreover, we do not need and certainly would not tolerate this form of Government. Our weakness is not in democracy, but in the executive, in the leaderships."

"I am convinced that a strong executive could accomplish in our country all that Hitler has accomplished in Germany and much more for we have greater financial resources, and Parliament would respond to a strong executive."

HITLER ADMIRES

"Hitler has a profound admiration for the British people, which is shared by Germans of all classes. Their desire for friendship with us is indisputably real. Over and over again Germans said to me, 'We have only had one quarrel with England; we must never have another.' Hitler wants our friendship."

"What, Mr. Lloyd George, is Hitler's quid pro quo?"

"He doesn't ask and has never asked for a quid pro quo, except equality of status for his great country."

QUESTIONNAIRE

"How is it, if he wants our friendship, asks for no quid pro quo, and has no military designs anywhere in Europe, that for six months he has left unanswered the very reasonable British questionnaire on his intentions?"

"It ought never to have been sent. We submitted no questionnaire to France or to Italy. Why to Germany? They are much more fully armed than Germany."

"They were all questions that ought to have been put at the conference itself. They justified the suspicion that we do not even now regard Germany as an equal. We administered interrogations as if we were litigants in some petty prius suit. It was pettyfoggery and not high diplomacy."

"If Hitler has no ambitions for military conquest how is he going to carry out his expansionist programme for making a prosperous Germany?"

"His expansion is an expansion of Germany's internal resources. Outside it will be a commercial expansion. Both processes are going on now."

"Germany is already developing her external trade. She has an improving trade, for instance, with Yugoslavia, with Bulgaria and Hungary. She is trading more and more with Russia. She is going to put up a great fight for trade and for the free trade drive. It will be eastward rather than westward."

"You would agree that at present Germany is a poor country?"

"Yes, a very poor country. Her people were literally starving at the end of the war. Afterwards inflation took an uncontrolled, left her insolvent. There are many indications of that, one of which—not the least significant—is the absence of display of luxury goods in the shops even in great cities like Munich. But there is no hunger anywhere now."

SNOBBERY

"Hitler, in fact, discourages all forms of luxury. He himself lives

ADOLF HITLER

"He is unquestionably a great leader."

with the utmost simplicity. He is very abstemious. Apparently his only recreation is gardening. The room in which I had a meal with him is austere furnished."

"There are few rich people in Germany to-day. The great industrialists who made vast profits before the Revolution are no longer allowed to retain those profits. They are compelled to expend a large proportion on welfare improvements inside the factories."

"As to what remains, they are so heavily taxed by the State that it is rare to find any industrialist able to command for his own use a very large income. I do not think the rich Germans altogether share in the general worship of Hitler. They regard him as a passing necessity."

"One extraordinary feature of the Nazi regime is that it has tended to break down class distinctions. There is very little class feeling in Germany. Hitler has a down on social snobbery. He says: 'You are all Germans—you are not swells and common people.'"

"This view is now almost a religion. On one occasion my companions told me that they sat in a large restaurant with two or three members of the old aristocracy and it was most interesting to see that their chauffeurs sat with them as a matter of course at the same table."

"Hitler, though he doesn't admit it, is doing many things on lines similar to the Russian method of running the economic State."

"I believe large numbers of workmen are more satisfied with their present relations with their employers than with their relations under the old regime."

"I talked to many of these young workmen, both middle-aged and young, and they admitted frankly that their Works Councils with a right of appeal to the district arbitrator or judge were a great advantage and produced quicker and more definite results than the old method of strikes."

"More than one of them said to me that it was a good thing to have got rid of what they described as the political trade unions."

"They preferred to keep questions affecting conditions of their working life out of politics. John Burns, Henry Broadhurst, Thomas Burt and most of the old trade union leaders were strongly of that opinion when they were in political parties."

"On the other hand, a leading manufacturer in Germany said to me: 'I realise that we have never till now understood the point of view of the workman.'"

"How far is the improvement in Germany due to rearmament?"

"The figures of absorption of the German unemployed into the rearmament industry are greatly exaggerated. I inquired into that matter, and I am convinced that not more than 25 or 30 per cent. have been so absorbed."

BIG PLANS FOR PUBLIC WORKS

"What is going to happen when Hitler has completed, if he ever does complete, his rearmament programme?"

"I understand that is all cut and dried. Hitler told me that his rearmament programme will be soon completed."

"He is ready now for the immediate transfer of the main activities of German labour to gigantic reconstruction schemes. All is ready now for the work 'Go.'"

"Germany is doing a wonderful work in the building of great arterial roads and in the reclamation of millions of acres of land. And when rearmament is at an end German industry will begin at once (Continued on Page 11.)"

A TIP ABOUT CHILD CARE
Health authorities point out that a harsh adult laxative is too strong for a child's delicate system, even in reduced doses. Castoria, made especially for children, contains nothing harsh or harmful and is safe, gentle in its action. It tastes good too.

"Yours For the Asking"

The screen's most happy combination of man-of-steel and romantic lover. George Raft, puts a new feather in his cap by his performance in the Paramount comedy-romance, "Yours for the Asking"
which opened yesterday at the Queen's Theatre. Raft is co-starred with Dolores Costello, Barrymore lovely star "Little Lord Fauntleroy" in the production. The story concerns a gambling-house proprietor who "goes society," setting up a gambling layout in the mansion once owned by Miss Barry-more's banker-father, and drawing the wanted trade. He is coached in his venture by Miss Barrymore, who slowly realizes that she is falling in love with him. Three Raft bench-men, James Glendon, Lynne Overman and Edgar Kennedy, are worried by the turn of things. Fearful that the boss and his new society ideas will lead to an end of their association, they cook up a scheme to turn Raft against the social whirl. Miss Lupino, beautiful ad-venturess, is instructed to pose as a member of the upper crust, win Raft, and then jilt him. To ac-

RIFLEMEN BRILLIANTLY HOLD SOUTH CHINA Change Style After Being Three Dow

CHAMPION TARLETON DEFEATED

BRITISH FEATHERWEIGHT TITLE FOR MCGRORY

(By Fred Dartnell)

Liverpool, Sept. 25.

Twelve thousand people at Anfield Road Football Ground to-night saw Nel Tarleton (Liverpool) lose his British featherweight title on points to Johnny McGrory (Glasgow) in a 15-round fight.

Immediately after the fight Tarleton announced by microphone that he was retiring from the ring. Tarleton just turned the scales at 131lb. McGrory weighed 131lb. 20z. Such betting as took place clearly indicated Tarleton as favourite.

Towards the end Tarleton was fighting hard to keep his throne. He brought into play all his resource and skill. McGrory tried with equal desperation to gain the ascendancy, but lost the 14th round by a shade.

The momentous last round came with the issue still trembling in the balance. McGrory kept boring in, and with two left hooks reached the face. Tarleton was dead tired but caught his man with a right on the chin and repeated the dose.

The better boxing was with the champion and it won him the round. I thought it had just about kept him the title, but the referee counted up the points and then lifted McGrory's hand on high as the winner.

Tarleton appeared stunned by the verdict, but recovered himself and, putting his arm around McGrory's shoulders, shook hands with him like the gallant loser and sportsman that he is.

MOST DRAMATIC ROUNDS

Most dramatic rounds:

First Round.—Wearing a scarlet pair of knickers, McGrory went straight into the fray with a left lunge, but Tarleton was not to be caught nipping, and a right uppercut sent the Scot back.

McGrory forced most of the pace and was clearly entitled to an even break in the first round.

Third Round.—Swaying and ducking in puzzling fashion McGrory soon struck up an attack which had Tarleton covering up on the ropes. So far Tarleton had lacked initiative, and his footwork looked slow. Midway through the round, though, he lashed out with a left to the stomach. McGrory fell, but was soon up and had a good share of the exchanges. Tarleton's round by narrow margin.

Fourth Round.—McGrory shaped with plenty of confidence. Then Tarleton staged a hurricane rally, but it was soon over. When the bell went Tarleton was on the ropes, rather worried by his rival's attentions. Even round.

(By "Veritas")

8. China "A" 3 R. U. Rifles 3
(Ferguson (4) Hartigan) (Tao Kwai-shing (2) Fung King-chung)

NCW and again one runs across a football match in Hongkong which is either such a brilliant exposition of the game, or is so exciting in incident that every kick or every move is followed with breath-taking interest. Such was yesterday's game at Sookunpoo in which Royal Ulster Rifles drew with South China "A" after facing a three goal deficit.

The last fifteen minutes were pulsating, and sent the crowd into ecstasies of excitement. The huge concourse watched, and cheered, one of the most gallant recoveries seen for years on a local football field. Nine teams out of ten, being three goals down against South China "A", would have given up all hope and retired from the fray as gracefully as possible. The Rifles had other ideas, and so splendidly did they fight back that finally it was not a question of by how many goals would they lose, but whether they would win.

TWO SCHOOLS OF THOUGHT

Two schools of football thought were fully catered for in this match. The purists held sway in the first half, when the Chinese proceeded to indulge in that type of play which earned them poems of praise in Europe, and has for years placed them in a class of their own locally. Everything they did, conceived, or attempted had behind it the cool, calculating science of football. There were no such things as the vagrant passes, haphazard clearances, or headstrong shots. Everything was planned and carried out with resourcefulness and skill. That was why South China scored three goals in the first half hour and were value for every one of them.

But in the second half it was the hard, fast, dynamic, let's-get-it-in-and-be-hanged boys school of thought which predominated, and which brought hundreds of spectators to their feet, cheering and screaming in their excitement. Lee Kwok-wai held Erwin in pretty tight reins, and the winger set to get the ball across first-time if he was to get it in at all. Yet it was the first-time kicking which eventually led to the Rifles scoring goals, a point which I emphasised last Saturday.

Pau Ka-ping was his usual efficient self in goal, but Wong Mee-chun was not able to keep up the hot pace set in the second half and became a back number in the closing stages, thereby making things much easier for Campbell and Ferguson.

Tao Kwai-shing was the best Chinese forward in the first half, but I was very impressed with the work of Lai Shui-wing at inside right. He had improved out of knowledge as a result of his European tour and fully merits his place in the team. Fung King-chung was a clever leader of the attack, but he should have essayed more shots in the second half instead of passing so much.

Ip Pak-wa was seldom in the picture, but Tay needed a great deal of watching, and but for such hard-going opponents as McConigal and Piekering would have been decidedly dangerous.

THE GOALS
Although Tay Qua-ling put the finishing touches to the shot, it was Tso who really scored, the first goal after about five minutes play. And the point was to a certain extent due to a mistake by Connor, who let the ball slip through his hands.

Shortly afterwards Tso made the score two with a really grand dropping shot which had Connor beaten all the way, and after the Chinese had continually raided the Ulsters' goal, Fung King-chung, with his talking deliberation, netted a third. All this time there had been only one team in it, but after this the Rifles slowly recovered and set up some serious counter-attacks. From one of these, Ferguson headed in brilliantly and the Chinese crossed over leading 3-1.

There was excitement early in the second half when the Rifles, forcing the exchanges had a period of shooting-in, and it came as no surprise when Hartigan brought the score in 3-2. Then, with ten minutes to go, Ferguson netted a third, and a few moments later the crowd went nearly delirious with excitement.

Both goals were hotly attacked in the closing minutes, but they held out.

VERY FINE GOALS
But apart from the beautiful touches of the Chinese in the first half and the subsequent recovery of the Rifles, the match was notable for the very fine goals scored. Tso with which were going in their own particular way—first time shots which would have beaten most goalkeepers. But the most spectacular was that of Hartigan's, which was the fifth of the match. The ball was sent across from the right and Hartigan ran in, and without hesitation took the ball just as it was about to hit the ground. It swerved round and found the back of the net so quickly that the eye could scarcely follow its flight. Another pretty goal was Ferguson's first, scored late in the opening half, when he rounded off one of those through-the-middle movements by heading in a high forward pass.

Ramsey's Walk Over And Hung's Win

RECREIO CHAMPION

W. C. Hung and T. Ramsey will contest the final of the interesting Chinese Club tennis championship as a result of W. C. Hung's defeat of stage guest yesterday morning.

An unusual and unsatisfactory feature of the competition this year is the walk-overs concerned in the important rounds.

Watson received a walk-over from Teddy Fincher in the semi-final and Watson yesterday gave a walk-over to Ramsey.

Yesterday's match between Hung and Guest was not a very interesting one, Guest being unable to adapt as usual to the strong wind. Hung was in good form and co-ordinated his general play with some confident overhead work. Hung won, 6-4, 6-0, 6-2.

C. de R. TENNIS

A.V. Remedios defeated J. Gonzales 3-3, 10-8, 6-3, in the final of the Club de Recreio tennis championship on Saturday afternoon.

A THREE-GOAL FINISH

An opportune recovery in the second half of the Royal Navy's match with Kowloon Chinese Football Club on the Peninsula yesterday enabled the sailors to snatch a point after being three goals in arrears at one stage. The final score was 3-2. The Navy were making their first appearance this season in the senior league and showed many faults in understanding and positional play. The Chinese took full advantage of these lapses but it was due to the sailors' faults but to their own fine constructive football that the home side held a two goal lead at half time.

CANNELL'S SURPRISE

Soon after the resumption the Chinese added a third. Not until the closing stages did the Navy show any real determination in their attack, and it came as a complete surprise when Cannell put on three goals in rapid succession.

At times the Chinese were very decorative in their artistry, and played a very methodical game; their pattern weaving being truly entertaining. A wonderful understanding existed between Chow Man-chi and Wong Wing-hong, and the accuracy of Lau Chung-sang's shooting gave Langley some anxious moments. Li Kwok-chui was a tower of strength in the pivotal berth, and Mak Sui-hon excelled as a left back.

Following a free kick near the Chinese goal, Cannell swerved in a lovely goal to open for the Navy. Time was drawing near the final whistle when Cannell increased the Navy lead with a beautiful left drive. These quick goals stimulated the Navy forwards, and in the last minute Cannell sent home the equaliser.

Teams:
Royal Navy.—Langley; Underwood, Love, Clarkson, Bowers, McCall, Dorn, Mugliston, Cannell, Ratcliffe and Wearmouth.
Kowloon Chinese.—Sui Din-lim; Kwok Pine-chung, Mak Sui-hon, Ho Choh-yin, Li Kwok-chui, Chan Ming-kwong; Tang Kwong-sam; Lau Chung-sang, Wong Wing-hong, Chow Man-chi and Fung King-yue.

NAVY AND ARMY RUGBY DEFEATS

Club's Double

The Hongkong Football Club rugby section opened their season on Saturday with a double victory, their first fifteen defeating the Royal Navy by 15 points (five tries) to six (two tries) and their "A" team defeating the Army "A" by seven points (a dropped goal and a try) to nil.

The main fixture of the afternoon was the meeting between the Club team and the Navy fifteen, which produced a fairly high standard of rugby. As it is, however, rather early in the season, the Navy players felt the effects of the heat, although the Club players stood it better as they have already had several practices. The Club were the better in the scrums, heeling the ball splendidly, but they were inclined to be a little slow in the loose. Watson, one of the Club's newcomers, played a fine game, and should be a distinct asset this season. He was well supported by Munro, Coppin and Walkden. Van Leeuwen, another newcomer, gave a very impressive display as a three-quarter, his speed being a great factor in his play.

Colman, at back, was outstanding for the Navy, while they possessed a useful three-quarter line, which showed up effectively throughout the game.

They were J. D. Thomas, S. Jex, H. Westlake and H. C. Borne.

WEEK-END HOCKEY

Caer Clark Cup Holders Lose

The Hongkong Ladies beat the C.A. Ladies who are Caer Clark Cup holders, by four goals to one in a friendly hockey game on the Naval ground at Happy Valley on Saturday.

The first half of the game was evenly played, though the Hongkong Ladies were more dangerous in front of goal.

The Hongkong Ladies opened the score midway in the first half through Miss M. Smalley, but after the interval Mrs. Burton—equalised for the Central British Association. Miss J. Dalziel scored the remaining three goals for the winning team.

FUSILIERS v. Y.M.C.A.

A friendly hockey match was played on Saturday at Shamshulpo when the Royal Welch Fusiliers beat

NEW BADMINTON ENTRY

The University of Hongkong have intimated that they will be entering a team in the Badminton competition this season. Their late entry is explained by the delayed formation of the Club.

THE Y.M.C.A. BY SEVEN GOALS TO ONE

The game in the first half was fast, and Boupon opened the score for the soldiers after ten minutes of play. After this goal the soldiers outclassed their opponents and scored three more goals before the interval.

The second period was more even. The soldiers scored three more goals against one by their opponents.

SCHOOLS AT PLAY

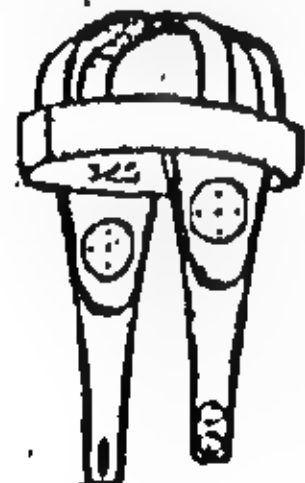

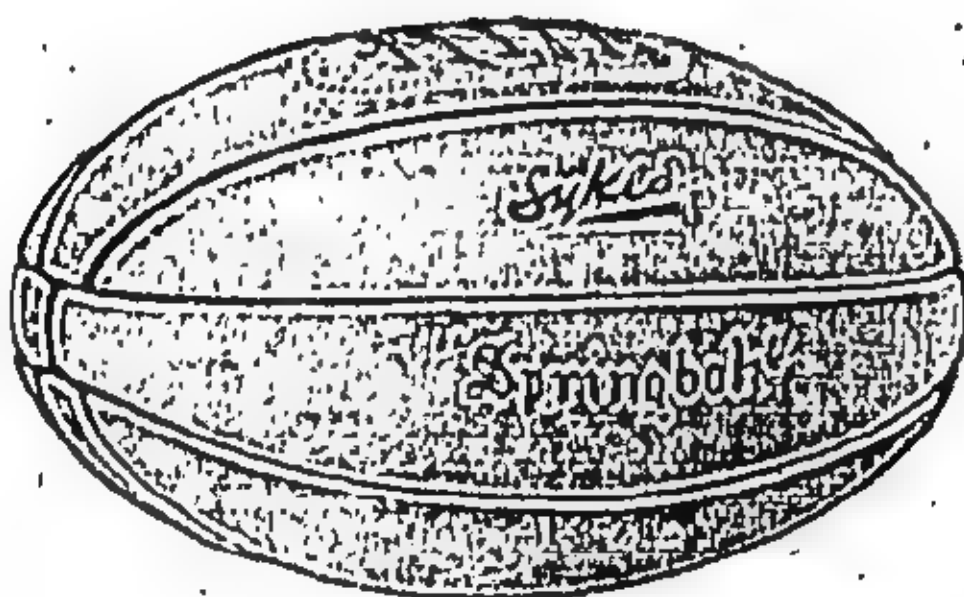

The Ellis Katoerie School for Indians did extremely well on Saturday to beat Queen's College in a friendly match at Caroline Hill by two goals to nil, scored by Telok Singh. The winners were well served by Telok Singh and Mohinder Singh, in goal. Satwan Singh, the Queen's College captain, was outstanding for the losers.

OTHER CASES

On two charges of unlawful possession of arms and breach of the Depopulation Ordinance, Chan Kau was sentenced to 18 months' hard labour. He was charged with having a revolver and five rounds of ammunition and with having returned to the Colony on August 23 last, after having been banished for five years on November 18, 1935. He had two previous convictions under the Tobacco Ordinance, the first one dating back to April 1925.

Another man, Chow Sp, 24, unemployed, was brought up for conviction, but, like the others, pleaded not guilty. He was convicted on evidence given by witnesses and was sentenced to a fine of $1, in default, seven days' imprisonment.

Inspector Malir said the police had received many complaints from European ladies residing in the district that Chinese men bawling and lewd in the nullahs, and added that himself had seen them doing so.

A fatal bus accident occurred in Connaught Road West yesterday evening, resulting in the death of a nine-year old boy, Tam Sui-chung.

The driver of the bus, No. 301, Tam Sing, reported to the police that while driving about 4.05 p.m. yesterday, he was overtaken by a motor car, which ran across the road in front of the bus and was knocked down. He received severe injuries and was admitted to the Government Civil Hospital where he died at 7.25 p.m.

The motor car was being driven by Prince's Building, has reported to the police that while driving private car No. 226 in Hennessy Road yesterday, he was knocked down a woman, Au Wan-kwang, who ran across the road.

The woman was admitted to hospital and is now recovering.

Lo Ying, bus conductor, reported that Ng Sik-yuen, shop clerk who was a passenger in bus No. 782, jumped off while the bus was in motion in Nathan Road near the Albert Hotel. He fell and his arms were removed to the Kowloon Hospital in an unconscious condition.

D'Almeida, "to deny that. It was always kept in the kit and only accidentally slipped into his pocket on that day. Evidence had also been given by Hughes that their intention that day was shop-window-smashing. That, too, was denied."

Continuing, counsel admitted that the offences were unpremeditated and that there was no question of any systematic attack on women of that class. It was not a crime along the lines of that of Jack the Ripper, because the latter case extended over a period of months, whereas the present one took only a quarter of an hour.

"Apparently acting on an impulse, which, I think, was due to certain unbalance in his mind," went on Mr. D'Almeida, "he whipped out his razor and committed the offence. When he was about to attack the second woman, Hughes left him. The accused then continued on his way and attacked the other two women. After making these attacks, he seemed to have awakened to the seriousness of his action to such an extent that he went to the Police Station, gave himself up, and rendered what assistance he could in look-

After referring to the nature of the injuries, which, he said, were not very serious, counsel pleaded that the accused should not be exemplarily punished because no deterrent was necessary, as such cases were fortunately rare in the Colony.

The accused had been sufficiently punished. As a result of his admission, he would be discharged from the Army after serving his sentence. He had thus lost his livelihood and he was dependent upon himself.

His Lordship: I am glad to hear that, for this is a matter which concerns only the military authorities.

Mr. D'Almada apologised for misunderstanding his instructions and concluded by asking His Lordship to deal with his client as leniently as possible.

His Lordship: Mr. D'Almada, I have listened with great interest, and attention to everything you have urged on behalf of the defendant in this case. I have, of course, read the depositions. I find it an extremely difficult case in which to assess sentence and the course which I propose to take is to postpone sentence until the next Sessions of this Court."

Jean Batten Again Pays Tribute To 'Ovaltine'

AFTER RECORD ENGLAND -AUSTRALIA FLIGHT

Mrs. Jean Batten who by her consistent skill and daring has definitely established herself as the world's foremost aviatrix—has again proven her ability and courage by breaking the women's record, previously held by Mrs. Amy Molison, for the England to Australia flight.

With that accomplished, Miss Batten dauntlessly dared the Tasman Sea—conquered only once before in a small plane, and then by a man—and won! From London to Auckland, from one end of the earth to the other, flown by a woman; alone, in a small plane—the world's homage is but fitting.

During this grueling ordeal Miss Jean Batien used 'Ovaltine,' for she had proven on her previous flights the wonderful sustaining power of 'Ovaltine.'

* 'Ovaltine' was also used by other famous fliers including C. W. A. Scott, Mrs. Amy Mollison, Tommy Rose and Jones and Waller. Actual experience in many outstanding feats of endurance, and in every day life, has proved that 'Ovaltine' is unequalled for giving added strength under trying conditions, and for maintaining perfect physical fitness and abundant vitality.

GERMANY'S LOST COLONIES

Fears that the delicate question
of the return of the former German Colonies might be thrust into
the forefront at a time when there
are more vital matters demanding
attention appear to be set at rest
by the reported triumph of German conservative opinion anxious
not to embitter relations with Britain at this stage. On the matter raised, Germany's feelings
are quite understandable; her
case differs from that of the Italians, who, following the con-
quest of Ethiopia, deigned to add
that their colonial aspirations
were satisfied. The lands which Germany wants were once her
own. In considering this matter,
it will probably be conceded that
if any of the Allies, as a result of the Great War, were bereft of a substantial part of their overseas
possessions, the demand for restitution would be insistent, if, in
the interval, that country had
made itself one of the most
formidably armed nations in the world, as Germany is to-day.
The economic factor is not the
only point in the German claim.
Germany argues that the question
is a matter of prestige, power and
self-respect, and it seems clear
that she will not be a satisfied
member of the society of nations
until her colonial aspirations have been satisfied. Dr. Karl von Abshagen, a noted German journalist, recently stated in a speech
in England that the idea that Germany would go to war to regain her Colonies was preposter-
ous. Saying that Germany would never admit that when she was
compelled to hand over her Colonies on the signing of the Peace Treaty, she gave any right
of possession in favour of the Allies, this commentator expressed the hope that "common-sense
and goodwill" would prevail in dealing with this question. One aspect of the matter which has
been put forward is that the return of the Colonies at this jun-
cture, so far from buying peace
and contentment, might merely
whet Germany's appetite for more concessions. There is, also, a psychological factor to be taken
into account, this being the Nazi
contempt for weakness, concerning which a London commentator
has hazarded the view that hasty
compliance with the German demand might possibly be mis-
construed. Be that as it may,
there is clearly no urgency in the
matter, which can well be left
over for calm consideration at a
time when world conditions are
more composed than they are today.

The Face of DARING

Is there some common denominator in the faces of
these women who perform
epic flights regardless of
personal danger?

JEAN BATTEN, Amy Molli-
son, Beryl Markham, Amelia
Earhart—four women whose
flights have matched the bravest
deeds of men.

Look at their faces.

All four have high foreheads, widely spaced eyes, prominent mouths and
strong chins.

All four are greatly alike in the patterns formed by their lines, especially in
the lower half of the face.

Look first at the tip of each nose,
and notice how it tends to overhang the
upper lip. Then follow back the wings
of the nose, observing in all their expressed breadth, and from here follow
the curve which runs round the mouth.
This curve contributes to the determined
expression of the chin.

It is fixed by the formation of the
jaw and the action of the facial muscles.

The central cause of the similarity of
expression in all four faces is the prominence of the jaws along the line of
the teeth. On this is developed a well-
set and clear-cut mouth, in which the length of the lips emphasises their straightness. Vigour of expression is accentuated by the relatively hollow appearance of the flesh round the mouth;
the sharp decisive boundary between up-
per lip and cheek; the depressions between
lower lip and chin, and between upper
lip and the tip of the nose.

All this construction reflects the
characteristics of courage and endurance,
just as in the pattern of the forehead
and eyes there is evidence of clear
judgment and presence of mind.

But though all are so eminently
endowed with these general characteristics, each is a very distinct personality,
differing in many ways from each of the others.

SELF-CONFIDENCE and ease in overcoming difficulties are
the outstanding traits. She is extremely simple and unassuming in her manners and outlook, pleasant and warm by nature, anxious to please and to be of assistance to others. She shows intense interest in all she does, responds spontaneously to interest shown by others, has the ability to grasp the significance of small incidents readily, and is thus not easily surprised or caught off her guard.

On the other hand, she possesses great feminine charm, is sensitive, reliant and reserved—although by no means shy. Her manner of approach is open and sincere, but she expects sincerity from others,
and is not easily appeased if advantage is taken of her good nature.

SELF-SUFFICIENT and independent, this face shows a controlled, but nevertheless warm, nature. She does things for their own sake, and for the sake of adventure: she is daring, though not reckless,
detail.

She is an excellent judge of men and situations. She is open and sincere—but discreet. Does not give way to impulsiveness or anger, though she is capable of rigid inflexibility—and even hardness if she thinks that others do not estimate her correctly. Quick to resent interference or criticism.

QUETLY efficient, remarkably determined, the face reveals
a character which commands attention at any time. She dislikes ostentation, is reserved in attitude, opinions, and speech. A planner and in many ways a dreamer, far-sighted and courageous, she stands always alone.

She is, however, an exceedingly pleasant companion, reliable to the extreme. She accepts hardships easily, shows the same reliance and decision even in the most dangerous situations. She does not overrate her achievements. She is prepared to make great sacrifice for the future welfare of man. There is more idealism than anything else behind her quiet, determined manner; but she does not like talking about it. The real type of pioneer.

SENSITIVE, warm-hearted—and has a lively sense of humour. In spite of her daring, she is intensely feminine in her attitude. She is cheerful, generous, intensely natural.

Though reserved about herself, she is an enemy of subterfuge, and reacts spontaneously against insincerity of duplicity of any kind. She is not easily influenced, to not against her convictions, but on the other hand she is capable of self-sacrifice.

She will not easily forgive a personal slight. Is not calculating,
entertainment.

INTERNATIONAL
BOWLS
Successes

The semi-finals of the Gutierrez International Shield, lawn bowls competition, were played at the Kowloon Bowling Green Club yesterday. Portugal defeated Malaya, conquerors of India, last year's champions, 24 shots to 10, and Scotland went down to England 12 shots to 20.

In the match between Malaya and Portugal, a high standard of bowling was put up by both sides, many close heads being seen. The Portuguese, however, were always slightly superior both individually and as a team, particularly H. A. Alves and R. F. Luz who gave splendid displays and were mainly responsible for most of the shots. F. V. V. Ribeiro also sent down some good wickets, and C. G. Silva was consistent without being brilliant.

Of the losers, A. Bakar and A. R. Dallah were outstanding, especially the latter who saved his side more than once with accurate drives. M. R. Abbas and A. M. Wahab were inclined to be inconsistent, and failed to maintain the form with which they helped their side to beat India last week.

The teams were:
Malaya—A. Bakar, A. M. Wahab, M. R. Abbas and A. R. Dallah (skip).

Although the standard of play was not as high as that in the Portugal-Malaya match, the England-Scotland game was a closely-contested affair, the former winning by eight shots, the score being 20-12. England, represented by C. S. Simmons, W. E. Hollands, A. W. Grimmit, and S. Randle (skip), led throughout the match, gradually increasing the lead as the game progressed.

Scotland was represented by J. Watson, J. McKelvie, J. C. Chalmers and W. Muir (skip).

England's victory was largely due to Randle who played an exceedingly fine game. He was ably supported by Hollands and Grimmit. Watson and McKelvie were outstanding for Scotland.

M. C. C. Tourists
Facing Hard
Task Abroad
"Fergie" Goes Along
With Spare Trousers(By G. R. W. Smith)
Sunday Express

It was not my idea of a perfect day to say good-bye yesterday to those lucky friends of mine who set forth from Waterloo on a seven months' trip that will take them round the world playing cricket, seeing the sights, and being entertained as ambassadors of sport.

As the smiling face of Gubby Allen, surrounded by a halo of other members of the M.C.C. team, receded down the line while we poor stay-at-home cheered like mad on the platform, I felt like taking the next train to hand me in the Orion, Australia bound.

One of these days I will go on that ill at Sydney where barracking is at its ripest—that is if the new movie in Australia for more refined cricket does not kill the art.

It will be a hard tour for all members of our team. Quite apart from the physical strain of almost continuous travelling, they will be up against opposition on the field of play that will tax their resources to the uttermost.

HARDEST WORKER

But the task of the 17 tourists, and of their manager, Captain R. Howard, will be light compared with that of one man who will accompany them, unaccompanied and unsung, but, nevertheless, the hardest worker of the party.

William ("Fergie") Ferguson is his name. He is engaged as official scorer and baggage master. "Fergie" has "bagged" and scored for every Australian team to visit this country since Joe Darling's side of 1905, and every M.C.C. team in Australia since Johnny Douglas took a team there in 1920.

ALL THE ODD JOBS

I found him last week at Scarborough, where he has been helping the All-India team. He is travelling back with them this week as far as Toulon, where he joins the Orion with the M.C.C. team aboard.

A slight, wiry, Australian-born man, with bronzed face and blue eyes, silver hair, and an inevitable trolley bag pulled over the eyes, "Fergie" is unknown to the majority of cricket fans, and yet one of the greatest personalities in world cricket.

"I look after all the baggage and its transport," he said, "the trains and tickets for the players, and do all the odd jobs that the team manager cannot pretend to handle."

"It's a terrific job being team manager of a touring side. Few people realize the responsibilities, and I take as much off his hands as I can."

NOTHING LOST

Generally speaking, "Fergie" has to take charge of about 80 pieces of baggage. In 30 years he has never lost even a suitcase.

Scoring he records almost as a sideline, but to me his labours in that direction are in the nature of one of the seven wonders of sport.

He keeps the score in the ordinary way for official purposes, but he has a private system of his own by which he keeps a record of every ball bowled in Test matches.

He also draws careful diagrams of every stroke showing where every ball went and by whom it was fielded.

"I keep a note of all the missed catches, the time bowlers come on and off, the pace of scoring, and the length of every partnership," he told me.

If you asked him, for instance, what happened at five o'clock on the first day of the Third Test in 1926, he could tell you in a second. "Fergie" has been here and all over the world with Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, West Indian, and All-India teams.

His total mileage in the service of cricket must exceed the million mark. He has made 23 trips to England from Australia alone.

FARNES' TROUSERS

And here's a tail-piece. Just before the M.C.C. team left Southampton yesterday, Kenneth Farnes, the Essex amateur, remembered that he had left his spare trousers behind.

Captain Howard came to the rescue and wired "Fergie" to bring them overland to Toulon. Knowing "Fergie" I can bet that the trousers will be with him on the quay-side.

POLICE
IMPROVE
EAST LANCES
HELD TO DRAW

Contrary to general expectations, the Police managed to force a division of points in their meeting with the East Lancashire in the senior soccer division yesterday the final score being one goal all.

The Police side had improved out of all show on their previous performances this season, and were unlucky in failing to take both the points.

Moss in the leader's position was the outstanding member of his side and a little more support from his inside men, particularly Gough, would undoubtedly have secured maximum points. Britain and Blackburn at back had a strenuous time, the latter in particular wreaking most of Hiddings' solo efforts to reach the net. The intermediate line displayed some weakness in the early stages of the game, being prone to fall back on Britain and Blackburn rather than keeping up field to support the attacks of their forwards. Of the forwards, Gough was not at all times reliable and his shooting in the latter stages of the game was not of the best, while Steele and Johnson, though giving a sound exhibition, found the keen tackling of Steele and Swain little to their liking.

The first goal fell to Sandford who was quick to seize a long pass from Crowthor and netted from 20 yards out with an excellent shot.

Teams: Police—McHardy; Blackburn, Britain; North, Brooks, Parker; Pile, Johnson, Moss, Gough, Tennit; East Lancs—Oxford; Swain, Steele, Thorne, Crowthor, Ekersley, Griffin, Smith, German, Sandford, Hiddings.

SERIOUS OUTBREAK AT
KAU U FONG

Over $5,000 worth of property was destroyed by a fire which broke out about 12.30 p.m. yesterday in the densely populated district of Kau U Fong, Central area.

The outbreak originated from the second floor of No. 6a, Kau U Fong, occupied by the Wing Hing Long, shirt makers. Fanned by a strong breeze, the blaze spread rapidly to the second floors of the adjoining houses, Nos. 6b and 4, and had it not been for the prompt arrival of the fire appliances more serious damage might have been caused.

As it was, almost an hour had elapsed before the fire was subdued. Curiously enough, neither the ground floors nor the third floors of the houses were seriously damaged. The cause of the outbreak is not known, though it is believed to be due to the carelessness of a cigarette-smoker.

The premises at No. 6b were also occupied by the Wing Hing Long, while No. 4 was used as a residence.

Extraordinary enthusiasm for the British Navy's work in rescuing refugees from Spanish danger-spots was proved by the behaviour of the people of Bilbao when the destroyer, H.M.S. Esk, brought 44 refugee children from Navarre and San Sebastian to-day.

The town was decorated with flags and people lined the streets shouting frantically, "Viva Ecuadora Inglesa!" as the naval escort took the children to the British Consulate.

This enthusiasm is in striking contrast to the execution voiced by the crowd a few days ago when the children, due to arrive overland by lorries, were left behind on the route when the lorries found themselves in danger of sticking in the mud. The lorries arrived at Bilbao without the children and the crowd threatened to lynch the drivers.

When the captain of the Esk learned of the children's plight he arranged to pick them up and bring them to safety.—Reuter.

HEROIN PILL POSSESSIONWIDOWS CHARGED AT SESSIONS

Three widows, Ng Sam, 64, Cheung Sam-ku, 30, and Chan Yee, 20, were tried at the Criminal Sessions this morning on a charge of possession of 28,750 heroin pills and five ounces of red mass containing heroin sufficient to make a further 500 pills.

Mr. M. J. Abbott, Assistant Crown Solicitor, appeared for the prosecution and the accused who pleaded not guilty, were not legally represented.

The following jury was empanelled: Messrs. A. Bower (foreman), A. G. Piovannelli, Chau Yu-lung, H. M. Omar, Robert Choo, J. G. R. Humble and E. Alves.
Outlining the facts of the case, Mr. Abbott said that at 1.30 p.m. on September 14, acting on information, Revenue Officer Brown and a party raided the second floor of 235 Kee-lung Street. The door was opened by the first accused after a short delay.

On entering, Mr. Brown heard a commotion next door, as a result of which he made investigations and found the second and third accused there. It transpired that the three clambered over the parapet dividing the two houses in an effort to escape. When Mr. Brown saw them, they were being scolded by the indignant inmates.

The articles mentioned in the charge were found on the premises as well as other paraphernalia for the making of the pills.
When formally charged, the first accused said she had come from the country only the previous night. The second and third prisoners stated they were asked to make the pills by the first.

The case is proceeding.

FORMER P.W.D. COOLIESENT TO GAOL FOR ABDUCTION

On a charge of abducting a 14-year-old girl, Tsau Sau-ying, from the custody of her mother on July 23, 1935, Wong Ping, aged 24, an ex-P.W.D. coolie, was sentenced to six months' hard labour when he appeared on remand before Mr. Macdwyer at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning.

Defendant denied that he abducted the girl, and said she followed him and lived together with him.
Inspector E. J. Ellis, attached to the Secretariat for Chinese Affairs, who prosecuted, said defendant made no effort to help the mother trace the girl, although he knew where she was all the time.

Questioned by the Magistrate as to why she followed defendant, the girl denied having done so, and said defendant had deceived her. She alleged that defendant met her, and asked her to go over with him to Hongkong to see a cinema show. When they got to Hongkong, defendant suggested that she accompany him to Canton for a couple of days, and said there was nothing to be afraid of. She told him her mother did not know, and would worry about her, but defendant said he would write and let the mother know she was with him. It was on this promise that she accompanied him, and he later persuaded her to go with him to his native village, again promising to write and let the mother know.

His Worship remarked that he was not sure that the girl was so unwilling to go with defendant, as she had made out, but, in any case, the fact that defendant had not informed the mother of the girl's whereabouts was sufficiently serious. He would therefore sentence defendant to six months' hard labour to make him realise that abduction must be treated as a very serious matter.

Defends His SpendingPUTTING MONEY IN CIRCULATIONBuffalo, Oct. 18.
Dedicating the new Federal Court here to-day, President Franklin Roosevelt made a speech in which he defended the Administration's spending policy.

"It is the major factor in restoring the spending power of the worker and the farmer," he declared. He said that he had returned to his native state after a tour of the nation, on which he had found "smiling faces" everywhere.

Fifty thousand people jammed Niagara Square to hear the President while thousands lined the highway throughout the 22 mile drive from Niagara Falls to Buffalo.—United Press.

Soviet Skipper Fined ALLEGED ENGINE TROUBLETaihoku, Oct. 18.
Captain Dmitri Danilov, of the Soviet freighter Terek, was fined 1,500 yen to-day by the local court for an illegal attempt to enter the Hiko naval port, in the Pescadores, on August 16.The 3,500-ton ship, carrying a crew of 35, was on its way from Vladivostok to Singapore with a cargo of wheat, when she attempted to enter Hiko. The vessel was stopped by a mine-layer and detained, while the captain was subjected to an all-night examination.
The captain claimed that serious engine trouble forced him to seek refuge in the nearest port, but this was denied by the Hiko gendarmes. Both the local and the Tokyo naval authorities took "a very serious view" of the matter, the court was informed.—Domet.SONATA RECITAL
LAST OF SERIES ON FRIDAY

The last of the three sonata recitals given by Prue Lewis (violin) and Maurice Barton (piano) at the Helena May Institute Hall, will take place on Friday night next, for which another delightful programme has been prepared.

The chief item is the great Sonata by Beethoven, which no-one who loves profoundly imaginative and romantic music, will care to miss. The A major Sonata by Brahms, a group of violin solos, and two groups of German songs (Schubert and Schumann) by the Rev. H. W. Baines, will complete the evening's entertainment. The box plan is at the Helena May Institute.

BARRIERS TO TRADE MUST BE SCRAPPED OR WORLD MAY WITNESS NEW ECONOMIC WARSParis, Oct. 18.
The International Chamber of Commerce considers the monetary agreement into which the Governments of Great Britain, the United States and France recently entered, offers a signal opportunity to start sweeping away all trade restrictions, whereas failure to seize this opportunity may threaten a serious risk of a series of new currency depreciations and the intensification of economic warfare.

These reflections are embodied in the report of the Council of the International Chamber, which outlines a plan where main recommendations are the immediate conclusion of bi-lateral treaties designed to dem-

EKINS AT ALAMEDAON LAST LEG OF WORLD JAUNT*20 DAYS OF TRAVELSan Francisco, Oct. 18.
"Bud" Ekins, one of the three American journalists engaged in a round-the-world air, rail and sea race, arrived at Alameda on the China Clipper from Manila to-day. He is ready to embark immediately on a trans-continental airliner and will be in New York within a day, barring accidents.

His two rivals, Miss Dorothy Kilgallen and Leo Kiernan, who were unable to make an air connection between Hongkong and Manila and consequently missed the China Clipper, though it was held up for several days by typhoons, are still at Manila. They expect to take off Tuesday.

The three adventurers started from Lakehurst, N.J., on September 5, aboard the zeppelin, von Hindenburg, in which they flew to Frankfurt. Thereafter their routes differed, but Ekins led all the way.

Ekins hopes to complete his journey in twenty days.—Reuter.

EKINS HELD UPUnion Air Terminal, Burbank, Cal., Oct. 18.
"Bud" Ekins took off at 4.40 p.m. to-day aboard the Sky Chief, and his schedule calls for arrival at Albuquerque at 9.30 p.m., Wichita, at 1.43 a.m., Kansas City at 3.10 a.m., Columbus, O., at 7.55 a.m., Pittsburgh, Pa., at 9.08 a.m. and Newark, N.J., at 10.53 a.m. (all local times).

Over 400 people greeted Ekins on his arrival by the China Clipper, 10 hours 41 minutes from Honolulu. A launch met him in the bay and took him to the Pan-American Airways administration building, where he presented Mayor Rossi of San Francisco with the Netherlands Indies and Philippines flags and received a gold nugget from the Golden Gate Exposition.

The first of the round-the-world races to reach here, he was hurried away to Burbank aerodrome at 11.45 a.m.

Ekins missed connections at Burbank and had to wait for a later plane, and will now take off at 4.30 p.m. His plane from San Francisco can take storms. A thunderstorm greeted Ekins at Burbank and, grinning wryly, he complied with the request of news reel cameramen to repeat a splashing trip from the plane to the shelter of the hangars. He said globe grinding was simple, like getting places in a taxi, getting in, sitting down, getting there and getting out.—United Press.

FATHER ROBBED BY SONPARENT REQUESTS GAOL SENTENCE

A young heroin addict appeared before Mr. K. Keen at Central Magistracy this morning and pleaded guilty to a charge of having stolen from his father, Chiu Ming-shak, owner of a medicine shop in Queen's Road, $7.00 in Hongkong money.

Inspector Mair disclosing the facts of the case, said that at 7.30 a.m. on Saturday, defendant approached his father's bed and extracted from under the pillow a bunch of keys which gave access to money drawers in the shop. Complainant was sleeping at the time, but a shop-folk saw the action of the defendant and watched him. Defendant, using one of the keys, opened a drawer containing money and extracted the amount mentioned in the charge. Complainant was informed of the theft and made a report to the police, after which his son was arrested. Inspector Mair mentioned that defendant was brought before Mr. Balfour some time ago for a like offence and was bound over, and added that defendant's father wanted the boy to be sent to prison as he was a heroin addict.
Replying to a question from Mr. Keen, complainant said "I want him to go to the prison."
Defendant was ordered to serve two months' hard labour.QUEEN
